Tornadoes, Thunderstorms Claim At Least Eight Lives; Loss Heavy

By The Associated Press

THE SEASON'S biggest crop of tornadoes and thunderstorms ripped across the eastern third of the nation yesterday, killing at least eight persons, injuring a score and causing property damage in the millions.

The twisters highlighted a violent outbreak of March weather over large areas of the country.

Thunderstorms doused the sodden Ohio River Valley basin hard on the heels of the river's worst flood in seven years. However, the U. S. Weather Bureau at Pittsburgh saw no new flood threat resulting.

Winds up to 70 miles an hour sent the winter's worst dust storms boiling over the southern and central Great Plains. Half of Colorado's three million acres of winter wheat was ripped out.

A cool front, expanding eastward into moist and almost summery warmth, triggered the chain of tornadoes and thunderstorms.

Hardest hit was a 45-mile area extending from Connorsville north-eastward to Union City in Indiana, Leetonia in Columbia County and Steubenville in Jefferson County in Ohio and the southwestern Pennsylvania area around Pittsburgh.

Winds up to 92 miles an hour buffeted much of the area.

The storm struck east central Indiana shortly after 2 a. m., swept on into Ohio and then tore into Pennsylvania. Buffeting winds were felt in New York's Steuben County.

Wind-driven rain pelted parts of western Maryland and West Virginia. A mild squall line passed out to sea from New Jersey late yesterday morning.

The twisters tore down power lines, toppled telegraph and radio towers, blew a freight car off its track and unroofed homes and buildings.

Damage in Pennsylvania was estimated well in excess of a million dollars. Damage also was expected to pass the million-dollar mark in Ohio. Indiana counted nearly 1/2 million dollar damage in two cities and insurance adjusters say claims from rural areas will hit the highest total in recent years.

Throughout much of the hardest hit area, toppled trees and fallen poles with their mesh of wires blocked some roads.

At Steubenville, Ohio, lightning punched a gaping hole in the roof of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church and activated Civil Defense sirens in five schools. A flood of telephone calls poured in on the police and fire departments.

Lightning struck a transformer in Union City, Ind., on the Indiana-Ohio line, starting a fire that caused a half million dollars damage in the heart of the city.

The winds caused an estimated million dollars damage to a United States Steel Co. ore bridge at Rankin, Pa.

Another ore bridge in Johnstown, Pa., owned by Bethlehem Steel was reduced to twisted steel girders but the company made no estimate of damage.

In Pittsburgh, the storm toppled the 500-foot tower of television station WENS with an estimated damage of $115,000. The tower of radio station WLOA was knocked down at Braddock, Pa., causing $15,000 damage.

Italian Senate Ratifies Pacts For Germany

ROME, March 11 (AP)—The Italian Senate put a decisive 139-82 okay tonight on the Paris agreements to rearm the West Germans and make them partners in the Western European Union.

The Senate vote completed Italian parliamentary action on the accords. It made Italy the eighth of the 15 nations involved to complete such action. Italy's lower house, the Chamber of Deputies, approved the treaties Dec. 23 by 335-215.

In addition to providing for German troops as part of the Western Union against the threat of Red aggression, the accords provide for restoration of West German sovereignty and for admission of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Twister Blows Itself Out Before Reaching Local Area

THE STRONG tornado-like winds which ripped through the mid-west and into western Pennsylvania causing at least seven deaths and considerable damage had calmed down to a great extent upon reaching the Poconos yesterday.

The storm was said to have lost most of its power while passing over the Allegheny Mountains in the central part of the state. The powerful winds had reached a peak of 92 miles per hour in the western sector. Hurricane force is 75 m.p.h.

A sudden darkness hit this area about 10 a. m. giving indication of the coming front but it moderated shortly after as the storm headed toward New Jersey. Highest velocity of wind recorded in this area was 42 miles per hour at Mount Pocono.

Mrs. Julia Grady, weather observer there, said that was 20 m. p.m. above the normal for the mountains but added "it gets as high as 42 about once a month up here." She stated the force had dropped to 18 m.p.m. early last night.

The observer gave the day's high temperature as 57 degrees in the mountains. That was at 4 p.m. The low had been 49 at 6 a.m., while it was 50 degrees last night. Light showers fell in the afternoon.

Mrs. Grady told The Record she expected partly cloudy skies, more showers and cooler weather today. "The temperature will be probably in the high 30's," she commented. The mercury hit the 60's for the second straight day in the Stroudsburgs, according to local weather observer Pierre Lake. He reported the high as 65. It was 56 at 8 a.m. and had dropped only five degrees to 51 last night. An afternoon shower lasted only a matter of minutes.

Clark To Seek Reelection As Philly Mayor

PHILADELPHIA, March 11 (AP)—A rift developed today in Philadelphia's Democratic party ranks and Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr. gave the go-ahead for circulation of petitions for his nomination for reelection.

Clark blamed the situation on a "critical" condition concerning the slating of councilmen, citing in a brief statement that "an all-out primary fight in the interests of good government may become necessary."

Clark's statement came in the wake of a letter from the Philadelphia City Council, dated March 10, asking Clark to resign as mayor. The letter stated that the council had voted to remove Clark from office because of his "incompetence and inefficiency" in handling the city's affairs. Clark's response was a letter to the council stating that he would continue to serve as mayor until the end of his term in 1956, but that he would not seek reelection.

Major Charged With Offenses While Prisoner

FT. MEADE, Md., March 11 (AP)—Maj. Ronald E. Alley, 34-year-old artillery officer who has been down with tuberculosis since he was freed from a Communist prison camp in North Korea, today was accused of cooperating with the enemy and informing on fellow prisoners.

The Army accused him of 10 specific offenses violating five military laws.

Alley, who was transferred here earlier this week from the Army's Valley Forge General Hospital, left today for his home at Bar Harbor, Me., and could not be reached immediately for comment.

Two Girls Released By Kidnaper

CHICAGO, March 11 (AP)—Two kidnapped girls were released today, and police pressed a search for a man who lured them into his automobile 34 hours earlier.

The girls, Kathleen Neumann, 9, and Carol Tillotson, 7, told police their abductor is a man about 24 years old named George. They said he held them overnight in an apartment with an elderly man and woman they believed were his parents.

They said he drove them early today to a street intersection near their homes on the Northwest Side and released them. It was in the same neighborhood that they were lured into the kidnaper's automobile last night with promises of candy and ice cream.

The girls told police they were not molested except that the man insisted on cutting off several locks of Kathleen's blonde hair. She said he added her hair to other curls he kept in a locker.

The two girls, along with two playmates, Christine Hasla, 6, and her sister, Carlene, 7, were enticed into the man's automobile while playing in a sand pile near their homes. The sisters were let out of the car a short time later when one began to cry.

Kathleen and Carol told investigators they shared a bed with the elderly woman they presumed was their abductor's mother.

They said the man told the elderly couple the children were lost.

Bids On Bridge Project Sought

HARRISBURG, March 11 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission today called for bids March 30 for construction of a substructure for the Lackawanna River bridge, part of the north-eastern turnpike extension, in Moosic and Taylor boroughs, Lackawanna County.

Tax Cut Vote Slated Tuesday Or Wednesday

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Senators fighting for and against a new income tax cut agreed today to limit their debate and vote on the issue next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The war of words in the Senate will continue unabated until the opening of Tuesday's session.

At that time, under a debate limitation negotiated by Majority Leader Johnson of Texas, four hours will be allotted to a discussion of a "compromise" tax plan being pushed by the Democratic leadership.

This calls for a $20 income tax reduction for millions of Americans next year plus $10 reductions for each dependent except spouses. The legislation is so drawn, however, that it would apply mainly to families earning under $5,000 a year.

There will be a two-hour limitation on any amendment, with an equal amount of time given to the discussion before a final decision.

Johnson said the Senate would stay in session as late as necessary Monday to give members an unlimited amount of time to speak their minds.

The House has approved a $20 cut for every taxpayer and dependent next year, coupling it with legislation to extend for one year certain corporate income tax and excise rates scheduled to drop April 1.

President Eisenhower wants the rate extension, but is strongly opposed to any income tax cuts at this time.

The Democratic compromise plan was drafted after strenuous objections were voiced to any reduction in revenue. In addition to reducing the income tax cut, it provides for a longer extension of the corporate and excise tax rates and repeal of substantial tax benefits voted last year for corporations and stockholders.

Johnson has said the alternate plan would mean a net revenue gain of $4,894,000,000 between now and July 1, 1957. But some opponents do not accept his figures.

Backers of the tax cut had the floor in the Senate today. Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.) said the talk about the Democratic tax proposal being "irresponsible and silly" sounded to him as though "we've entered into a government of euphoria in this country."

The former vice president said the GOP-controlled 80th Congress had passed a tax reduction bill over President Truman's veto in an action with "political undertones" before the 1948 presidential election.

Then last year, in another election campaign, he said, the Republicans claimed they had reduced taxes over seven billion dollars when, Barkley said, some six billion of this had been brought about under tax provisions enacted by the previous Democratic Congress.

He and Wood testified as the Banking Committee resumed its study of the 18-month rise in stock prices.

Unlike previous witnesses asked the same question by Fulbright, Graham replied "Yes, sir" when asked whether the committee's hearings had anything to do with recent fluctuations in stock prices.

Fulbright said he doesn't see any reason why the study "should necessarily put the market down."

The stock market, Graham said, is in a "rather sensitive" condition, subject to being influenced by any number of factors, including the hearings.

Red Generals Promoted

MOSCOW, March 11 (AP)—The government tonight announced the promotion of 10 army generals to the rank of marshal of the Soviet Union.

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin and thus one of mankind's greatest benefactors, died today of a heart ailment. He was 73.

The famed bacteriologist collapsed shortly after having breakfast in bed at his home. Lady Fleming, 43, a Greek war heroine and scientist, was at his side when he died.

It was she who nursed him through pneumonia in 1953—and penicillin was credited with helping greatly toward his recovery.

World honors, including the 1945 Nobel prize for medicine—which he shared with two coworkers—and a British knighthood, showered down on the kindly, shy Scotsman, but he never made a profit out of his discovery. The gifts he received from admirers he used to further his work.

Sir Alexander himself described his discovery in 1928 as "pure luck."

He had been experimenting with an antiseptic substance from human tears and saliva which he called "lysozyme." One day a spore, presumably blown through the open window of his old-fashioned laboratory, showed up on a culture plate he was studying.

Fuller Given Life Sentence For Killing Racket-Buster A. L. Patterson In Phenix City

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 11 (AP)—Husky Albert Fuller, former chief deputy sheriff at Phenix City, was sentenced to life imprisonment today on a first degree murder conviction for the slaying of A. L. Patterson, sworn enemy of racketeers.

The 12 jurors, who listened to millions of words of testimony in the longest jury trial—25 days—in Alabama history, returned their verdict at 2:36 p.m., 22 hours and 11 minutes after they received the case.

Fuller's $12,500 bond, under which he had been free since shortly after his indictment last Dec. 9, was immediately revoked. He was taken into custody by Jefferson (Birmingham) County Chief Deputy Sheriff Wilton Hogan.

Chief defense attorney Roderick Beddow announced that the verdict will be appealed to the State Supreme Court and a motion will be filed for a new trial within a week or 10 days.

Patterson was murdered at Phenix City last June 18, only 17 days after winning the Democratic nomination for attorney general. The prosecution charged that his pledge to smash Phenix City's multimillion dollar racket empire inspired the killing.

In actual deliberations counting time out for sleep and meals, the jury had spent only 7 1/2 hours in conference before reaching a decision.

The 35-year-old Fuller, wearing a tan lightweight suit, remained calm as the verdict was read by Leon Ritter, an aircraft plant employee and foreman of the jury.

Just before the verdict was read Fuller turned his head and winked at a reporter behind him.

His face froze into an impassive mask as he heard the jury report.

Seals Directors Uncertain Where To Invest Funds, Stock Market Probe Told

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Gen. Robert E. Wood, who manages the big profit-sharing pension fund of Sears, Roebuck & Co. said today "I don't want to risk my employees' money" in the stock market at its present level.

Wood told the Senate Banking Committee the fund now has 90 million dollars in cash but its directors are "at wit's end" wondering where to invest it.

Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark.) asked Wood why, if he doesn't think the stock market is too high, he didn't invest the money in stocks.

"I'm uncertain," Wood replied. "He also replied 'I don't know' when Fulbright asked whether there is too much speculative activity in the market."

Wood, who was chairman of the board of Sears for years, is now retired from that post but is still a director and chairman of the pension fund.

Another witness, Benjamin Graham, New York financier-professor, said he considers the stock market "to be on the high side and getting into a dangerous situation." He said he was inclined to favor "a fairly rapid advance" toward putting margin requirements at 100 per cent to halt credit purchases of stocks.

Graham is chairman of the Graham-Newman Corp., an investment company. He is also a part-time teacher—"evaluation of common stocks"—at Columbia University.

He and Wood testified as the Banking Committee resumed its study of the 18-month rise in stock prices.

Unlike previous witnesses asked the same question by Fulbright, Graham replied "Yes, sir" when asked whether the committee's hearings had anything to do with recent fluctuations in stock prices.

Fulbright said he doesn't see any reason why the study "should necessarily put the market down."

Red China Threatens Reprisals

TAIPEI, Formosa, Saturday, March 12 (AP)—If both sides mean what they say, there may be trouble if and when the Finnish tanker Aruba tries to reach a Red China port with 13,000 tons of jet fuel—enough to send out Russian-built MIGs on 5-200 missions.

It was quite evident on Formosa that Chiang Kai-shek's warships and planes intend to intercept the Aruba once she comes within range.

On March 9, Peiping radio broadcast a Red China warning that any interference with the tanker on the high seas "is not to be tolerated."

The feeling was apparent on this Nationalist stronghold that a move to intercept the tanker would, at the very minimum, have the sympathetic understanding of the United States which is formally committed by treaty to the defense of Formosa.

On March 4, when the Aruba was reported in the Suez Canal area, a U. S. State Department press officer in Washington said the tanker's voyage "cannot fail to evoke the disapproval of the free world."

The Finnish Embassy in Washington said at that time the tanker was a privately owned ship which had been chartered "to a foreign country" and the Finnish government was without legal authority to prevent the trip.

The Red broadcast March 9 said all such Nationalist seizures in the past were accomplished "under the protection of the United States" and that country "will have to bear the full responsibility for such piracy" should the Aruba be intercepted.

The State Department declined comment in Washington Friday on the report of Nationalist plans to intercept the tanker.

The U. S. State Department reiterated disapproval of the Aruba's voyage after the Peiping broadcast.

Responsible quarters on Formosa said interception of the Aruba would be just a part of the routine duty of carrying out a U. N. embargo against shipment of strategic goods to Red China.

Once the Aruba passes Singapore, extra vigilance will be exercised by Chiang's warships and planes.

Two years ago, another Finnish tanker, Wilma, tried to haul 10,000 tons of the jet-fuel kerosene to Red China. It stopped at Singapore because of Western protests and sold the cargo to the U. S. government.

Once the Aruba passes Singapore, the tanker would have two choices. It could try to sneak into the Pearl River leading to Canton. Or it could take the long way through the Java Sea, Malacca Strait, the Celebes Sea, then out into the Pacific and head for Shanghai.

The Nationalists were reported to have various sources which can keep them informed of the Aruba's movements.

Ike Appoints Ferguson As Ambassador

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Former Sen. Homer Ferguson, Michigan Republican, was nominated by President Eisenhower today to be ambassador to the Philippines. Senate confirmation is virtually assured.

Ferguson, who was defeated for re-election last November by Sen. Pat McNamara, a Democrat, is slated to succeed Adm. Raymond A. Spruance. The latter is retiring next month after 45 years active service in the Navy and three years in the Manila post.

The 66-year-old Ferguson said, when told by reporters of his nomination, that he was "greatly honored."

"If the Senate approves my nomination, I shall do my very best to serve my country well in that capacity," he said.

Since leaving the Senate, to which he was first elected in 1942, Ferguson has been serving here in two capacities: as a member of the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization and as a consultant to general counsel Wilbur M. Brucker of the Defense Department. He has been paid at the rate of $50 a day for time spent on each of the two jobs.

Sunday School Lesson

Prayer in the Christian's Life. Jesus Teaches Us How To Pray. Scripture: Matthew 6:5-15; 7:7-11; Mark 9:24-29; Luke 18:9-14; John 14:13-17; James 5:13-18; 1 John 5:14-15.

By Newman Campbell

DO CHILDREN say their prayers now when they go to bed? Are they taught to pray to Jesus when they are tempted to do wrong, or need help? Do older persons pray more or less than they did in past years?

We probably cannot answer those questions because we do not know enough about the intimate lives of a great many people. My own opinion is that people generally pray more as the dangers of our world make us fearful.

Jesus said a great deal about prayer, and taught us some great truths about praying. We read: "And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are; for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward."

We should not condemn all men who pray on street corners or anywhere else in public as long as they are sincere and quiet. Their religion may call for prayers at a certain time; or they may be in need of God's help at the moment.

A sudden temptation may assail a person or a feeling of helplessness when they need to call for would not think such a prayer was hypocritical. It is the person who prays in public so as to attract attention to his virtues to impress those within hearing, whom he condemned.

When thou prayest, Christ said, "enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

We need to feel near to our Father in heaven when we pray, and if we are closeted alone we are more likely to feel that nearness of spirit with Spirit.

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. For every one that asked receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened."

Then Jesus asked what good earthly father would hand his son a stone when he asked for bread, or a serpent when he asked for fish?

"If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him?"

HOLD YOUR BREATH

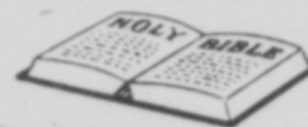

This young lady might miss the next step and take a nasty tumble!

Of course her parents wouldn't dream of letting her try those stairs alone until they had taken every precaution to teach her how to manage them carefully and safely. But regardless of precautions, sooner or later she has to run the risk of trying them on her own.

Every adventure in growing up has its element of danger, and wise parents are very careful to see that the child shall be trained to meet these dangers with the least risk to her physical health.

But what about the far greater risk to this child's moral and spiritual health when she has to face the really big perils of life on her own? When not a broken bone or two but her character is at stake—what then?

The Church will give your child—and help you give your child—the care and training she needs for meeting life's greatest risks safely and triumphantly.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fair Pay Rate For Legislature

State Legislators are chafing at the financial limitations of their jobs. They now get $3000 for each regular session (every two years), plus $1800 a year for expenses, plus mileage back and forth to Harrisburg for the weekly sessions.

Like everybody else, the legislators—or at least some of them—want more money. They haven't had a raise since 1939. Unfortunately, the state constitution has something to say on this point. They can't pass their own pay for the terms to which they have been elected. If they put through a pay-raise bill, they'll have to take their chances on getting elected again before they can cash in on it.

To get around this barrier, some of the State Senators have thought up a scheme that strikes us as just a little too slick. Since they can't raise their salaries, they propose to raise their expense allowances, from $1800 a year to $3600 a year.

This would give the solons a neat pay increase of 60 per cent, and no back-talk for the constitution. They wouldn't have to account for how they used the expense money, or whether they used it.

Let us repeat at this point an old truism: A good legislator is worth far more than the going rate at Harrisburg—whatever it is—and a bad legislator isn't worth any part of what he's getting. We have some of both kinds in Harrisburg.

This newspaper always has been of the opinion that it's poor economy to underpay the men who write our laws, whether in the Legislature at Harrisburg or in Congress at Washington.

Pare the salary down low enough and you automatically discourage many good men who just can't afford to take the loss involved in serving the public. But you won't discourage candidates who would use their legislative jobs to further their own personal interests.

In this case, as in so many others, the laborer is worthy of his hire. Legislators should get fair pay, they should have pension rights on a par with other state employees and officials and they should have reasonable allowances for expense.

The way work has piled up for recent Legislators, we would say that $3000 is poor pay for the average member. But the way to correct that is the way set forth in the constitution—pass a raise for the next Legislature.

The 1955 State Legislature has a lot of work to do, chief of which is finding the money to operate the state government for the next two years. They'll have to lay some heavy taxes on us to do that, and they'll have to cut expenses wherever possible to avoid making the tax bill too heavy.

Until they get those jobs done, the legislators had better not be passing out any expense-account plums to themselves. The public gets irritated with things like that.

Public Deserves More Sports On TV

The law and order committee of the State Senate has, among other things, approved a resolution urging state-aided colleges and universities to withdraw from the agreement of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. limiting the number of college football games that may be televised.

In behalf of the televiewer, we'd like to second the motion and we hope the Senate approves the resolution. It's time the colleges—who depend on taxpayers and private contributors for operating money—paid some attention to the general public.

The noose was drawn around televising of football games a couple of years ago because of a highly-developed fear that the magic screen would kill the gate. As a result we get one game a week, often a game played several thousand miles away, and we can like it or not like it.

Television hasn't killed the gate at football games, as was feared. Instead, the college games have been drawing somewhat better than before TV stirred up interest. We can think of no reason why Pittsburghers can't watch the away-from-home games of the University of Pittsburgh, just as they watch the away games of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who have been doing pretty well since TV came into the picture.

Also on the subject of TV, we wonder why the committee postponed action on a boxing investigation. Some of the fights televised here should properly be accompanied by a dreamy Strauss waltz and certain matches staged in Pennsylvania have puzzled viewers. It should be worthwhile for the state to take a look.

George Sokolsky Says...

Billy Graham Is So Popular Because He Talks Religion, Rather Than 'Anything'

The fact is astounding that Billy Graham, the evangelist, could fill Madison Square Garden in New York with an estimated 5,000 standing on the street, on a cold, wintry day, listening to a loud speaker. Although about 25,000 people is not an enormous number in ratio to the total population of New York, it is larger than a prize-fight, a basketball game, or a political speech draws in this city.

The question must then arise: Why is Billy Graham so popular? The answer is quite simple: He talks religion. Too many clergymen, in their sermons these days, do not talk religion. They talk about everything else. They review books of temporary value; they review Broadway plays; they are amateur psychiatrists; they go in for social action; they turn the pulpit into a political forum. But they do not talk of man's relations to God and of the evil of sin and of the consequences of infractions of the moral law.

And except for the very few who possess extraordinary histrionic and forensic talents and the other few who do, exceptionally, devote themselves to the task of being God's messengers, their sermons become tiresome and are often trite, and the congregants find golf more amusing or give themselves a few hours to "Do It Yourself" occupations at home.

That is why Billy Graham draws such crowds. The man is not a great preacher, in the style, let us say of Henry Ward Beecher, but he reaches the conscience of an era that seeks God all over again.

The clergy of all denominations might learn something from the phenomenon of Billy Graham, just as they might have learned something from Bishop Fulton Sheen or Norman Vincent Peale, I have heard Catholics criticize Bishop Sheen for being a showman, but he reaches men's minds and hearts and they understand what he says and they find comfort and guidance in his ministrations.

Once had quite a quarrel with a Protestant clergyman over Norman Vincent Peale. This clergyman arbitrarily insisted that Peale was not a Christian because he did not preach his particular brand. The clergyman, incidentally, preferred Communism to Catholicism, although he adhered both. So I made the point that Peale—this was before his astounding success as an author and on radio and television—could fill his church with people who would not go elsewhere.

In our disturbed period, men and women turn to God for peace and comfort. They want to hear God's word. Call it escapism, if you please, but they are not escaping to voluptuousness and drunkenness. They are escaping from the unreality of fear of the atom to the reality, for a while, of the life eternal. It is the wholesome response to the challenge of the confusions of our times. For many, who have been lost in the maze of argumentation and confusion, it opens a door to a new and rich experience.

—by H. I. Phillips

The Once Over

Talk About "Spectaculars!" The warning from a party national chairman that the future candidate for public office must have TV appeal continues to interest us. But the mere matter of show biz personality is not enough, we think. The "act" must be good. The old-time campaign routines are as dead as vaudeville. The successful candidate of tomorrow may need an airwave theme song and background music. Certainly clever lines will be essential and what entertainment circles call "business."

Since a political party sponsors a candidate, it should be entitled to a commercial and will have to work out a suitable technique, calling for a message that will sell the candidate just as other sponsors sell beer, soap, salad oils and detergents. Something like "Yes, you will feel healthier and happier" with a four-way candidate. Don't take any old politician when you feel low and depressed; demand Senator Oswald Pepperpot and get relief in twenty-four hours or your money back! Or perhaps "Are you nervous and irascible? Do you suffer from jangled nerves and that old what's-the-use feeling? Then act now, before it is too late and take the large-sized economy aspirant to public office, etc."

We think, too, that a candidate will have to give a TV touch to

The churches of God are not public forums nor are they substitute pens for the couch of the psychoanalyst. The clergy are not important as editorial writers who read complex studies on social problems. There are others to perform such wonders. The following paragraph was issued by an important religious denomination:

"... There is growing up over against Communism a fanatical negativism. Totally devoid of a constructive program of action, this negativism is in danger of leading the American mind into a spiritual vacuum. Our national house, cleansed of one demon, would invite by its very emptiness, the entrance of seven others. In the case of a national crisis this emptiness could, in the high sounding name of security, be occupied with ease by a Fascist tyranny."

What is the constructive program? I do not see it in the document. I do not see a statement of fundamental Christian doctrine such as Billy Graham preaches and such as his immense following craves. The clergy who fail to recognize that their function is a particular one, fail to meet the issue of our times which is how to bring God back into the home, back into the school and the workshop, back into the church.

I have come across clergymen who are Humanists. Man is the center of the universe. Man is everything. They avoid mention of God, but they capitalize science. That, of course, is their privilege, but what are they doing in churches and synagogues?

his speeches, coming on breezily with "Thank you, thank you, thank you very much for this wonderful reception. Boy, you're a good group tonight. I had intended to open this program with a discussion of grave issues before our nation, but I know this wonderful audience is in the mood for something more entertaining and I shall open the show with a musical number written by me in co-operation with the party chairman. I have called it 'Victory, I Love You,' and hope you'll like it. Following this, number you will see and hear from a brilliant array of famous guest stars, making their debut in a political TV production. And away we go! A smart candidate might even work in a capsule drama or a serial comedy sketch, using a gal partner. If we were running for President we would squeeze in a quiz and a jackpot. Noting, however, the current disconcert-

ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

No Third Major Party On Next Year's Ballot

Washington — You can discount the recent talk about the possibility of a third major political party appearing on the ballot in the 1956 presidential election.

It is doubtful that the Republican wing opposed to the Eisenhower administration could muster enough strength to put a presidential candidate in the field despite its Lincoln-Day blast at Ike. GOP Chairman Leonard Hall and other regular Republicans also say that dissident members of the party will be back in the fold by election day despite their grumbling. Of course, Democrats would like to see a second Republican group come into the picture. With a split in GOP ranks, their chance of winning back the White House would be enhanced. However even the most optimistic Democrats are not counting on such a possibility. They feel sure Eisenhower will run for re-election and that the Republicans will close ranks behind him, whatever their disagreements.

Union Unity — Look for fewer strikes when merger of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations takes effect sometime within a year. That is the word from labor experts who contradict speculation that walkouts will become more frequent because of labor unity and the resultant increase in the power of organized workers.

These experts point out that many strikes are caused by jurisdictional disputes between unions. The merger will largely do away with such disputes, since there will be far less competition for collective bargaining rights.

However, more important, the experts say that, although the merger will mean larger strike funds, union leaders are likely to scale down their pay-raise demands when they no longer have to "make a record" to keep their workers from thinking they could do better with some other union, or to attract workers who are still unorganized. Thus management will be better able to meet union demands or compromise on them without a strike.

Incidentally, the experts say Walter Reuther is far from through as a powerful labor force despite the fact that George Meany will be the first AFL-CIO president. They point out that Reuther is still president of the powerful auto workers' union, which merger or not, will be the peacemaker for the pay demands of organized labor.

Housing — The government wants to find out just how sound is the continuing boom in the housing industry. Federal men are making surveys to check vacant houses and apartments against home-building activity.

A Commerce department spokesman says there is nothing alarming about the high rate of home construction since there are unfilled housing requirements in virtually every state. However, what is lacking is up to date information on which the expansion can be accurately measured. The last survey of this kind was in 1950.

Lame Duck Perils — The perils of a "lame duck" were best exemplified recently in Washington by former Rep. Harold C. Hagen (R), Minnesota, who was defeated for re-election last fall. Hagen was mentioned prominently as a good bet for a high-paying job with the Government Printing office. He was, that is, until it came to the attention of Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield.

It was recalled suddenly that Hagen led an outspoken fight against an increase in postal rates advocated by Summerfield. Hagen no longer is in the running for the job.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Abe Lincoln, relates Robert Yoder, once attended the theatre in Springfield, Ill., and arrived just as the curtain rose. His eyes riveted on the stage, he thoughtlessly placed his tail silk hat on the seat next to him, open end up.

Entered a lady of bountiful proportions, headed straight for the empty seat. She sat. There was a crunch. She jumped up. The hat was now a black silk pancake. Mr. Lincoln picked it up ruefully. "Madam," he declared, "I could have told you my hat wouldn't fit you before you tried it on."

My old Uncle Herbert from Vermont, visiting New York, was appalled by the heavy traffic choking every thoroughfare. "You gotta nice town here," he opined, "but it looks like you fellers let yourselves get quite a bit behind in your haulin'!"

We shiver at a favorite son's discourse coming out like this: "Fellow citizens, what do you ask of a candidate for this high office? ... The cheese that leads all competitors and is especially good for picnic sandwiches! ... Should I be elected, what will you expect of me?"

Veteran's Day is now the official name for Armistice Day.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Joint Chiefs Of Staff Split Over Defense Plan

Washington, March 11 — The Joint Chiefs of Staff are split over defending Quemoy and Matsu Islands.

General Matthew Ridgway is again voicing sharp dissent. The Army commander's opposition is based largely on the contention that the Nationalists' outposts can be held only by employing American ground troops.

Congressional leaders have been informed that Ridgway cites two key factors in support of this view: The Quemoy-Matsu area is too restricted for naval and air forces to be effectively used in a limited defense; serious doubts exist regarding the morale and combat reliability of the Nationalist garrison.

This is the third time Ridgway had differed with the other Joint Chiefs on U. S. involvement in Asian fighting.

In the spring of 1954, he strongly counseled President Eisenhower against going to the aid of the critically-periled French fortress at Dienbienphu in Vietnam. The other Pentagon Chiefs and Vice President Nixon vigorously advocated that, but the President sided with Ridgway. The same thing happened several months ago on evacuating the Tachen Islands. Ridgway advised abandoning them, while the other Joint Chiefs urged they be held. Again the President agreed with Ridgway.

Congressional authorities have been told that Ridgway's tactical arguments against the practicability of defending Quemoy and Matsu are partially supported by Admiral Robert Carney.

The Navy commander is firmly in favor of holding these Nationalist outposts. He differs squarely with Ridgway on this basic issue. However, Carney is credited with confirming Ridgway's view that the Navy would be largely ineffectual because of the narrow and shallow waters and the close proximity of land-based Red bombers and fighter planes.

On two points all the Joint Chiefs are understood to be in full accord: (1) That an effective defense of the coastal islands will necessitate attacks on the Chinese mainland, and (2) that U. S. intervention in the defense of Quemoy and Matsu will lead to war with Red China.

President Eisenhower has directed the Joint Chiefs to prepare a report on (1) the military implications of U. S. defense of the Nationalists' coastal islands, and (2) the forces and measures that would require.

Secretary of State Dulles disclosed this during his closed meeting with the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Chinese 'Correctly' English

—by H. G. Heller

Mrs. Gertrude A. Ruch of Swiftwater, who spent so many years in China, contributes another bit of insight into the people of that great and sprawling nation.

"This time it is in the lighter vein, adding to the interest of Mrs. Ruch's always interesting contributions. This one deals with what Mrs. Ruch chooses to call 'the invincible Chinese.'"

"They are invincible, we may be sure of that!"

"Not long ago someone published a book in Shanghai called: 'Correctly English in a Hundred Words.' It ran this way:

"This book is prepared for the Chinese young man who wishes to serve for the foreign firms. It divided nearly hundred and ninety pages. It contains all of ordinary speech and write language. This book is clearly easily to the Chinese young man or scholar. It is quite understood, and that will be satisfaction."

"We submit," Mrs. Ruch writes, "that anyone, who knowing as little English as that, goes right ahead and writes a textbook on the subject, is not only brave and unique, but belongs to an unconquerable race!"

"However, we might add, right here, that that is just about the way we Americans speak and write Chinese in the early stages of study. I will recall telling my Nurse, Amah, that 'if the baby wouldn't die, to put him into his cart and take him for a ride.' She was horrified, but in her polite way, did not admonish me — but understood my bungling Chinese, and did what she should. They have a rare gift for understanding their own bungled language. And I might add — to my own chagrin, that the Chinese word for 'sleep' and 'die' are not too similar either."

"Here is a sample of one of the students of this 'correctly English in a Hundred Words' book who is obviously applying for a job."

"Dear Sir: I am Wong. It is my personal benefit that I write to ask you for a position in your honorable firm."

I have a flexible brain that will adapt itself to your business and in consequence, bring good efforts to your honorable selves. My education was impressed upon me in Nanking University, in which place I graduated number one. I can drive a typewriter with good noise, and my English is great!

My references are good and should you hope to see me, they will be read by you with great pleasure."

My last job left itself from me for good reason that the large man is dead. It was on account of no fault of mine."

So, honorable Sir, what about it? If I can be of big use to you, I will arrive on some date that you will guess."

Yours faithfully, Y. C. Wong"

It may be doubtful whether or not he got the job, but who could have the slightest doubt at whether such a person as this Mr. Wong will get ahead in the world?"

First Red Cross Campaign Report Shows $2,989 Subscribed

Young People To Assist In County Drive

TWO IMPORTANT announcements regarding the 1955 Red Cross campaign were made yesterday: the first solicitors reported and with the special gifts already in the office raised the total contributed to date to $2,989.67, and in two sections of the county young people have been delegated extensive responsibility.

County quota for 1955 drive, of which Fred Rhodes is county chairman, is $16,190, so that the amount in hand represents less than one-fifth of the amount needed in the campaign, now 11 days old. However from now on the captains are expected to report in greater numbers each day as their workers complete their districts.

First solicitor to report was Henry Tucker who is in charge of contacting automobile dealers. He turned in to headquarters the sum of $260. Mrs. J. L. Cohen, one of the captains in Stroudsburg, was the first captain to give even a partial report. Six of the 22 workers in her district have collected $136.10.

All of the districts have been organized and in two of them something new has been added this year: young people are helping in the Red Cross drive.

New to the drive but not to community service is the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Members of the chapter, all former Boy Scouts, volunteered their services in the drive. They have been assigned to cover all the retail business establishments in East Stroudsburg.

Pat Devers is president of the local chapter and Dr. G. Raymond Hood is faculty adviser. The members met with LeRoy Mikels, finance chairman, yesterday to be briefed on Red Cross work in this area and to map out their campaign. They plan to start on Saturday, March 19, and complete their canvass by the following Saturday.

Mikels pointed out that although the boys are from other communities, they are donating their services to aid not only the National Red Cross drive but the local chapter services financed by the drive in Monroe County.

"It fits in with the slogan that the Red Cross is 'people helping people'," Mr. Mikels said.

This is the same group which spearheads the successful enlistment of college student blood donors each year for the visit of the mobile blood donor unit to Monroe County.

Barrett Township is another community which is delegating campaign responsibility to young people. Frank Thomas, Cresco, Barrett drive captain, announced yesterday that a certain portion of the township is being covered by the Barrett Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y. The young people are taking their responsibilities seriously, he reported, and are likely to give veteran solicitors a goal to strive for.

Club Shown How To Tie Trout Flies

THE NATURE CLUB at State Teachers College met Wednesday. The students saw a demonstration of how to tie wet and dry trout flies. It was given by Earl Miller, a teacher at East Stroudsburg Junior High School.

Dr. William Martin showed slides on placement of wood duck nests. This was part of preparation by students for projects they have undertaken to enlarge hunting provisions in the Pocono Mountains area.

An estimated 60 members attended the meeting. Field trips on hunting rackets and other animals were discussed.

'Mosquito State' Nickname Rapped

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 11 (AP)—A Burlington County official complained yesterday that too many people think of New Jersey as the Mosquito State rather than the Garden State.

"Has the time not arrived," asked Francis C. Stokes, "when our state government and all of our citizens once and for all stamp out all reference to New Jersey as the Mosquito State?"

He said that at a recent farm convention in New York "badges for New Jersey delegates were handed out showing a three-inch mosquito."

Stokes spoke at the annual meeting of the N. J. Mosquito Extermination Assn.

Water Rates Discussed By Gap Committee

DELAWARE WATER GAP—The borough water committee consisting of Richard Hauser, Willard Kitchen and Christie Shull, will continue their meetings to check present water rates against billings.

Members of the town council who can be present attend the meetings. A full report of previous meetings was made to borough councilmen at their March meeting last Monday night. No definite action was taken.

Discussion had been about installing meters, but they were considered expensive and unnecessary. It had been hoped to eliminate one of the lesser charges—that for water used in hot-water furnaces—but receipts from new sources must be found to match what would be lost in such deduction.

Also discussed, but not acted upon, was the matter of sending out form cards for each household to list all uses of water in the home.

E. R. Lawson Bids For New Council Term

EDWARD R. Lawson, 517 Scott St., president of Stroudsburg's borough council, announced yesterday he will seek the Republican nomination for another term on council.

Mr. Lawson has guided the deliberations of council as president for the past four years. He has served the borough eight years.

A native of Stroudsburg, Mr. Lawson operates an auto parts business serving a wide area of eastern Pennsylvania and adjacent New Jersey.

During the last World War he operated a defense production business.

In the period which Mr. Lawson served as councilman and president of that governing body, the tax rate has not been increased.

At that same time the sanitary sewer system has been improved and expanded to include all of South and West Stroudsburg and the treatment works has been expanded and modernized.

He presided during deliberations which provided $320,000 worth of improvements, namely sewer lines in West Stroudsburg and expansion of the treatment works. To do this a Municipal Authority was set up.

A police-retirement system has been set up during his terms and work is well advanced on extending the retirement system to include all municipal employees.

The borough also moved during Mr. Lawson's presidency to bring about concrete negotiations for the purchase of the Monroe County Water Supply Co. system.

In addition to these achievements the borough provided the citizens with $150,000 worth of permanent streets, curb and gutter and important drainage projects. An additional $60,000 worth of these improvements were set up for completion this year.

Wedding At Cherry Valley Church Held

Cherry Valley. The Cherry Valley Methodist Church was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday afternoon at 3:30 when M/Sgt. Forrest Calvin Smith, son of Mrs. Blanche Everett and the late Calvin Smith, took as his bride Shirley Marie Schumacher of Lock Haven, Pa.

The church was decorated with flowers and traditional wedding music was presented by the organist, Mrs. Elva Knowles, who sang "I Love You Truly," and "O Promise Me".

The bride was attended by Betty Altomero, Brodheadsville, with Irving Altomero serving as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in honor of the newlyweds at the West End Firehouse, Brodheadsville.

A graduate of the Jackson Township schools, the bridegroom holds the rank of master sergeant in the United States Army.

The Italian Mutual Benefit Auxiliary, meeting on Wednesday at the Italian Club discussed various projects presented by the ways and means committee and decided to hold a rummage sale soon.

Miss Clara Lombardi presided at the meeting. The group also planned to present guest speakers at future meetings whenever possible.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

While the pre-Spring fever was catching up with most of us, it left undimmed the sparkle and vivacity of Mrs. Althea Staples celebrating her 95th birthday in style at a luncheon yesterday afternoon. Of course, having been born in March, Mrs. Staples is used to coping with its vagaries.

In fact she's always been able to cope with practically anything. After the rigors of campaigning for Woman's Suffrage and winning a couple of wars on the home front, a little unseasonable unweather isn't going to throw her off her stride.

And speaking of wars, I remember how impressed I was with the knowledge and interest with which she followed the events of World War II. She explained that as president of the Methodist Missionary Society for so many years, she had studied and talked missions until terrain of the Pacific and the Far East was as familiar as her own back yard.

Those of us who have trouble locating the Pescadores should be ashamed. In fact she might put all of us to shame who carry our lesser years so much more heavily.

However, I was reassured in the age department by seeing how young Betty Burnett Alexander still seems. I'll never forget those high school plays. In fact high school days seem a lot closer now that Grant Bartholomew is going to be teaching in the community again.

Remember the day—no, I guess we better not start reminiscing. Not that and Spring fever, too.

THE Wyckoff
SHOPPER

Don't know why it is, but every time I walk through our infants department, I get that old familiar longing for a brand new bassinette with a brand new occupant. I suppose a feeling like this is one of the "occupational hazards" of being a woman—whatever one's age. At any rate, yesterday I found myself loitering around the pretty display cases, and listening breathlessly to Thelma Gordon's enthusiastic descriptions of her new spring stock.

First thing she showed me were the new "gab crawlers" by Minikin. Of pastel gaudiness, these are utterly adorable—and, in a gentle way, rough and tough enough to withstand all the launderings required when little new brooms begin sweeping mother's floors clean. Now, for more information about them: these crawlers come in blue or in yellow, and have saucy, turned up, snapped cuffs of gingham in contrasting plaid—blue and pink for the blue; mini and yellow for the yellow. Shirts are of matching gingham, and there are solid color overalls to match the shirts. Prices: 1.49 for the shirt; 2.49 for the slacks; 1.99 for the overall. These are for infants in the 3 to 12-month category.

Another Minikin 4-star delight for your favorite minikid, is as nautical as it is see-worthy. Thelma calls this particular shade of blue, blue denim "light navy"—and certainly it is one navy you'll want your captain to join to "see the world". The shirts, in a lighter blue and red printed with symbols and flags, are of Toware—a brand new fabric that requires absolutely no ironing. The price is $1.69. Jackets of denim are 2.98, slacks cuffed in Toware, are 1.98, and the handsomely trimmed roller hats or brimmed caps are 1.19, infants, toddlers, and children's sizes.

For brother and sister, sizes 3 to 6x, we have some beautiful little suits combining charcoal and pink—so cute. A woman's heart goes right out to them. Material is of rayon in a linen weave, and the little girl's ensemble has a wide, circular skirt over a pink crinoline, and bolero jacket. Jacket and waistband are of cotton knit. The two pieces are priced at 5.98, and Thelma has combined them with a beautiful orlon, jewel-studded sweater in identical pink, priced at $2.98.

Another suit—also in linen weaver rayon—is of navy blue piped with red and white peppermint striped cotton chintz so shiny and fine you'd vow it was silk. This is priced at $7.98 in sizes 3-6x, and comes complete with an adorable bag and pixie cap. The manufacturer recommends this dashing ensemble wholeheartedly, boasting that it is crease resistant, . . . shrinkage controlled . . . sunfast . . . and just about the cutest thing the Easter parade can possibly bring forth.

As I said before—the infants and children's department is no place to loiter. If you're a woman who remembers an earlier day . . . and a time when the faces around the dinner table were much chubbier and knees were not so knobby!

C. R. Gearhart To Retire At Penn State

CHARLES R. Gearhart, a Monroe County native who has been a member of the Pennsylvania State University staff since 1923, is known nationally for his Dairy Herd Improvement Association work, will retire April 30 with 32 years of service, according to County Agent A. E. Ifft.

Gearhart frequently worked with Ifft in this area on dairy problems. Gearhart's retirement will coincide with the start of a new assignment as adviser on dairy production and management to the government of Turkey under auspices of the United States Foreign Operations Administration. He will leave for Turkey in late April, accompanied by Mrs. Gearhart, for a stay of at least two years.

Charlie as a boy, worked for Ed Kresge of Gilbert as a hired man. Ed says that on different occasions, Charlie urged him to haul in a load or two of hay or grain after supper and it usually paid off.

Native of Sugar Valley, near Effort, Gearhart was graduated in 1920 from the University of Missouri. Work done in the university's dairy department to pay his own way started him on his career in which he was to gain national recognition.

For three years he was extension dairy specialist on the Kansas State College staff before returning to Pennsylvania to accept a similar appointment at Penn State. Devoting his whole time to dairy herd improvement through the medium of butterfat test and detailed records on individual cows, Gearhart developed this program to a position of leadership among the states.

He has supervised the training of 2302 herd testers, including 209 now in active service. Through them he has supplied data for proving over 600 sires annually, thus enabling farmers to upgrade herds by concentrating on use of proved bulls. Recent spectacular success in dairy artificial breeding has been attributed largely to this basic work in sire proof.

Gearhart has given over-all supervision to the whole DHIA program, including the work of the herd testers, and has served as informal liaison between them and the more than 400 farmer board members who administer the DHIA program. Gearhart also has provided an educational program for the association directors.

By sharing his experiences with other states, Gearhart soon became widely recognized as a leader in DHIA work. Last June at the 49th American Dairy Science Association meeting on the Penn State campus, he was presented with the 1954 DeLaval Extension Dairy Award of a gold medal and $1,000 cash for his service to the dairy industry.

Twice previously, in 1931 and in 1950, the association had cited Gearhart for his work in dairying. He is a former director of the association and twice served on its executive board. He also headed its important extension section.

For four years he was secretary of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association. He is a Mason, a member of Gamma Sigma Delta, honorary agriculture fraternity, and of Epsilon Sigma Phi, national extension fraternity.

Mrs. Gearhart, formerly Miss Mabel Cooper, of Hannibal, Mo., whom he married in 1921, and Prof. Gearhart are the parents of two sons, Gayle C. Washington, D. C., an attorney with the National Labor Relations Board, and Gerald P., of State College. His parents were the late Theodore and Amanda (Snyder) Gearhart, of Sugar Valley.

Russian Farmers Will See Not Only Corn And Hogs In Iowa But American Way Of Life

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

How you gonna keep 'em down on a Russian farm after they've seen Iowa?

The suggestion by the Des Moines Register that if Russia wants to grow corn, they should send someone to see how it is done by experts seems about to bear fruit—or rather, ears.

The United States has just agreed to permit the entry of 11 Russian student editors for a visit to American colleges.

It's against the law for the State department to grant visas to Communists unless it decides it's in the national interest.

The matter of the students has been under consideration for months, though a part of the delay was due to an American suggestion that they withdraw their application for a visit last summer and renew it for a period when more colleges would be open.

The Register suggestion, and the relatively quick way in which the Russian government picked it up as compared with its usual reluctance in handling any foreign approach, should require no such time.

The United States Information Service spends a lot of time, money and effort trying to tell people about the country, its approach to living, its objectives, and its achievements. It would rather reach the Russians than anyone else.

One theory is that it will make them dissatisfied with their own system and prepare the ground for a change there which must take place before there can be any real peace.

There is another idea, too, in the back of many minds. It is that a prosperous Russia would gradually drop her revolutionary ideas.

Expressing this, the Register said "We figure that more knowledge about the means to a good life in Russia can only benefit the world and us."

The importance of one or two such visits should not be overemphasized. Russia will send only people who are thoroughly conditioned against the blandishments of the outside world. Molotov and Vishinsky never showed much appreciation of the American Way, no matter what they might have thought.

But there have been dozens of steps in American farming, selection of the seed and the planting, which individually didn't seem very exciting, either.

Even a member of the British Labor Party came to the United States the other day and returned home with the seemingly surprised impression that Americans are people, too.

Americans are people, Iowa is as American as ham and eggs. The farm collectivists there are cooperatives, a vastly different thing from what the Russians know. Some of them will not even believe it, and some will believe but deny it. But what they will see will not be merely corn and hogs, nor will the seed sown prove to be merely wild oats.

Expressing this, the Register said "We figure that more knowledge about the means to a good life in Russia can only benefit the world and us."

Stocks Drop As Much As Eight Points

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—The stock market ran into its third severe selling break of the week today and took a hard pounding.

Prices were able to withstand the worst of the pressure and managed a partial comeback in the session. Losses extended to between 1 and 4 points in numerous instances. Some losses at times went out to 8 points, but such extremes were unusual.

Brokers were inclined to look upon the selloff as a secondary wave of liquidation that many times comes on the heels of a primary reaction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $2.60 at $155.40. It was up 80 cents yesterday and fell $5.40 in the first three days of the week.

The industrial component of the average today was down $1.50, rails lost $3.10, and utilities were off 70 cents.

There were 1,244 individual issues traded of which only 140 advanced while 940 declined with 13 new highs and 9 new lows for 1954-55 touched.

Volume amounted to 3,040,000 shares, a total below average so far this year, but it was well above yesterday's 2,760,000 shares.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on volume of 1,040,000 shares. That compares with 910,

I said it in LIFE and I'll say it again — you can't do shirts like a professional laundry!

You're right, son . . . when we dress Dad's shirts with Velvet Rainbow — there can't be any comparison. Mommy is a specialist in home-making . . . not a slave to a hot ironing board. Besides she would have more time to play with you.

One big reason why Mommy can't match the job we do is the kind of starch she uses. We use Velvet Rainbow. It isn't sold retail.

No gasoline—no, not a single one—has higher octane than New 1955 GULF NO-NOX but octane alone is not enough . . . New No-Nox burns clean!

Only a gasoline that burns clean can make its full octane power really work for you.

Instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place; removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—at the refinery.

and clean-burning No-Nox gives your engine...

more complete protection!

Gulf treats new NO-NOX to protect every part it touches against harmful deposits.

See for yourself: Compare clean piston "A" from engine using new NO-NOX with piston "B" from engine using the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline that Gulf refines out. Both pistons, at left, from Gulf test engines, ran the same number of hours under the same conditions.

Fill up with new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX and feel the difference, right from the start, in full engine power that lasts. You'll get:

- More complete engine protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.
- Extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- Stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts . . . fast, fuel-saving warm-up.
- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

POCONO HIGH School's junior varsity basketball team, winner of its division of the Monroe County League, was the guest of John Crandall, manager at Pocono Manor, for lunch at the large area hotel yesterday. Chestnuthill, Monroe County League varsity champion, will be honored with a party at the West End Diner on Monday night. It certainly is fine to see area establishments honoring our local athletes.

Lee Hill, who plays soccer and basketball at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is a graduate of Fleetwood, Pa. High School, where Art "Bud" Heckman is athletic director. Heckman had outstanding success as a basketball and baseball coach at Pocono High, prior to leaving that post in 1943. Harry Warner, former Pocono High athlete, leaves for spring training with Jacksonville, Fla., of the class "A" South Atlantic League, tomorrow or Monday. Warner received his start in professional baseball with the Stroudsburg Poconos, in the now defunct class "D" North Atlantic League. This scribe has been told that Dick Little stands the best chance of any Stroudsburg cager to make the Lehigh Valley League All-Star team. The select group is expected to be listed in the very near future. Jim Parker, high scoring center for Cheyney State Teachers College, is scheduled to receive a tryout with the Minneapolis Lakers, of the National Basketball Association, in the near future.

Jim would have had his trial this week if it hadn't been for a broken finger suffered in the second contest with East Stroudsburg State Teachers College this season. Parker is certainly one of the best performers in the state of Pennsylvania. George Ralston, head coach of the Wilkes College basketball squad, suffered the loss of a great deal of popularity for his actions following Wednesday's 80-64 loss at the hands of ESSTC.

Ralston searched all over for a tape measure after the game, intent on measuring the height of the baskets in the Normal Hill gym. He maintained that the baskets were too low. Ralston, a former professional baseball pitcher, also maintained that Wednesday's game was the poorest played by his forces this season. Stroudsburg was very well represented at last night's Palmerton-Allentown basketball game at Hershey, even more so than at previous playoffs in Allentown.

Several Stroudsburg athletes will take their college board examinations at Lafayette today. Paul "Doc" Lin, football and baseball star at Stroudsburg, appears headed for Ursinus next year, while Dave, Nevil, three-letter athlete at the same school, is hopeful of entering Lehigh. Bill Pensyl, basketball and baseball star at East Stroudsburg High School, may enter East Stroudsburg State Teachers College next September.

Charley German is to be warmly congratulated for his selection as an honorable mention member of the Associated Press All-State basketball team. The modest ESSTC center played brilliantly all season, despite an injured foot, and earned the high honor although only a freshman. Charley, who first hit the basketball heights at Whitehall High, scored a total of 384 points in the campaign just completed, for an average of 22.6 makes an All-American. Charley makes a contest. He modestly will hit the top next season.

Tom Waring did a grand job at entertaining the ESSTC cagers on Thursday night. Tom supplied more food and milk than most of the kids had seen in a long time. Waring's outstanding informal manner made the entire program a huge success. It is quite possible that two Bjorns will play basketball at ESSTC next season. Walt, who established himself as one of the best rebounders in the state this season, may be joined by brother Ken, who led Danawus High to its most successful basketball campaign in history this season.

George Heidenreich, who wound up a fine collegiate cage career with the Warriors last Wednesday, may wear glasses in the near future. Bad news may come out of next Tuesday's meeting of the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg entry in the new Bi-State Baseball League. The circuit is scheduled to hold a business session in Port Deposit on Sunday. Coplay has won the District 11 class "C" Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball championship six times in the last seven years.

Allentown Eliminates Palmerton From Playoffs, 69-57

Canaries Hit Bombers With Initial Loss

HERSHEY — Allentown High School battled its way to another Class "A" District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association championship last night by finishing strong to defeat Palmerton, 69-57, before a packed house at Hershey Arena.

The victory snapped a 24-game winning streak for the Bombers, who had an undefeated record going into last night's titanic struggle.

Palmerton, champion of the Lehigh Valley League, appeared to cap an uphill drive with its biggest victory of the current campaign when it pulled to within three points of the Canaries in the final round, only to falter in the home stretch.

Allentown, a common District 11 champ, got off in championship form last night as the Canaries rolled up a 19-6 advantage after eight minutes of play.

Palmerton, playing the same cool basketball that has marked the entire season for the Bombers, fought back in the second stanza and cut its deficit to 25-22 late in the round, only to have the Canaries tally seven straight points right before the end of the quarter and shoot into a 32-22 lead at the halfway mark. Palmerton actually had the better of the going in the second round, 16-13.

Allentown enjoyed a 16-14 edge in the third stanza and went into the final quarter with a 48-36 advantage under its belt.

Terry German drove in for a layup to give Allentown a 59-34 edge with one minute and 55 seconds remaining in the game, after the Bombers had fought an uphill fight to throw plenty of doubt in to the game in the fading moments.

Dave Jones hit on a long set and Palmerton was off the pace by only three points, 59-56. Barron McElroy, one of the big guns in the Allentown attack, connected on a three-point play to put the Canaries into a 62-56 lead with one minute and 28 seconds still to be played. German came back to make it 64-56 and Bob Mikvy hit with a foul shot to cut the Allentown lead to 64-57, with one minute still to be played.

Bob Heffner, one of the outstanding players on the court for the Canaries, came through with a field goal and foul shot with 35 seconds left and then connected on two foul shots with eight seconds to be played to give Allentown its 69-57 verdict.

By winning last night's contest Allentown earned the right to continue its quest for a state championship in a battle with Reading, District Three title holder, here on the same Hershey court Tuesday night.

McElroy led the Allentown attack with 24 points, made up of 10 field goals and four foul shots. Heffner was next in line with 13, while German and Bob Benner each connected for 10.

Jim Oravey, Palmerton's Mr. Basketball, did all in his power to swing the verdict in favor of the Bombers as he scored 22 points with nine goals from the field, while Jones added 10.

Allentown ran up a 27-23 edge in field goals and converted 15 of 20 foul shots. Palmerton made good on 13 of 23 free throws.

Chestnuthill FFA Dumps Pocono, 43-35

BROOKLYN — Chestnuthill High School's Future Farmers of America scored a 43-35 basketball victory over Pocono's FFA cagers here on the winning club's home boards last night.

Chestnuthill had to overcome a first half deficit to swing the verdict, but turned the trick with a strong showing in the second half. Pocono led 11-8 at the end of the first period and 21-19 at the halfway mark.

But Chestnuthill came up with an 11-9 margin in the third round to tie the score at 30-30, and then went on to win with a 13-5 bulge in the final period.

Gene Meekes led the winning team with 19 points, while Grable's 12 counters topped the Pocono output.

Chestnuthill featured a 20-15 edge in field goal, but made only three of eight foul shots, while Pocono found the range of five of nine charity tosses.

Wright, Bridge Pace Scorers

DOUGLAS WRIGHT and Patsy Bridge, of Mansfield and Columbia, are the leading scorers in the Ramsey Elementary Co-Educational Volleyball Tournament at the present time.

The tournament is being directed by Vincent O'Hara and Ken Cox, student teachers from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

ESSTC and Mansfield remained tied for first place in the quarter final rounds last week as ESSTC defeated Columbia, 7-2, 7-4, and Mansfield took the measure of Yale, 7-3, 6-7, 7-6. Kutztown won over Springfield, 4-7, 7-3, 7-5. Penn State topped New York University, 7-3, 6-7, 7-1, and Yale upended Columbia, 7-4, 5-7, 7-4.

Mansfield and ESSTC meet in the first game of the semi-final round at 9:20 a.m. next Friday.

Redlegs Tame Orioles, 7-5

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs blasted rookie fireballer Ryne Duren for three runs in the seventh inning to break open a tied exhibition ball game and beat the Baltimore Orioles 7-5 today.

A homer by Bob Borkowski with one on in the second and another circuit blow by Ted Kuszewski in the fifth had given the National Leaguers three runs.

Braves Edge Dodgers

MIAMI, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Henry Aaron's two-run homer in the sixth proved the telling blow as the Milwaukee Braves beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-3, to even their spring series at one victory each before 7,447 fans tonight.

Joe Sopp, Cortland, N. Y., walked off with the top prize with a score of 1332.

Charley Nezelek, Binghamton, won high honors from scratch with a 1328 score, which was good for $500.

Staff Complete For Coaching Clinic

A STAR STUDDER field of talent will lecture at the 12th annual Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association clinic to be held at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, it was revealed yesterday by Marty Baldwin, clinic director.

Baldwin revealed that this year's clinic will be a four-day affair, opening on Monday, June 20, and closing on Thursday, June 23. A banquet, to be held on Wednesday, June 22, will highlight the affair. The banquet will be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Murry Warmath, who proved to be one of the top Big Ten Conference coaches during his first year at Minnesota, will headline the June clinic, with classes listed for the Normal Hill gymnasium.

Warmath, who received his collegiate coaching start under Earl Blaik, will direct the discussions on the split-T type offense. He made a big hit as coach at Mississippi State before taking over the Minnesota duties.

The clinic headliner led Minnesota to a record of seven wins and only two setbacks during his first year at the helm.

Popular Earle Edwards, now in the midst of building North Carolina State into a football power, will also take part in the football discussions. Edwards, one of the most highly regarded young coaches in the business, will speak on the single wing formation.

Edwards began his coaching career at Penn State as an assistant to Bob Higgins, recently retired, and then became an assistant on the Michigan State staff that recently gave at least three head coaches to the football world. Edwards graduated from Penn State in 1931.

Baldwin also revealed that the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association has been fortunate enough to obtain Paul Amen, Army, who will lecture on the straight "T" formation and on end play. Amen, one of the most sought after instructors, was recently named the number one assistant to Blaik.

Bob Davies, veteran star of the Rochester Royals, who will take over as head basketball mentor at Gettysburg College next season, will direct the basketball division of the clinic.

One of the greatest players in the history of pro basketball, Davies will bring his playing career to an end after many years on the hardwood. He played for Seton Hall College back in the early 1940s.

For the first time in the history of the area clinic two high school football coaches will serve as instructors.

The scholastic mentors this year will be Ken Bills, whose Danville graders have lost only two games in five years, and Walter Marshall, Coal Township High, located in Shamokin.

One of the largest crowds of Warriors another win in the 137-pound bout with a 2-1 nod over Joe Re.

Charley Dentith, Pennsylvania State Teachers College 147-pound champion, moved into the 157-pound class yesterday and blanked Marshall Jones, 5-0. Ken Cox closed out his collegiate career by pinning Bob Seivers in the 177-pound battle in one minute and 29 seconds.

Poly earned its second victory of the match when Anthony Marsaglia took a close 1-0 decision from Warren Payne in the heavyweight event.

Shaw was named ESSTC's 1955 wrestling captain right before yesterday's match. The newly elected captain was greatly responsible for the final record of five wins and three defeats, the best in ESSTC history.

Paul Salter won over ESSTC's Dom "Spike" Petrino, 7-4, in the 123-pound match, but ESSTC's Rocco Fraccia defeated Brooklyn's Jerry Lewis in the 130 pounder, 10-4. Roy Everts gave the

A two-minute freeze that led to a pair of foul conversions enabled Canisius to edge Villanova 73-71 in the first game.

The score was tied at 71 after two foul shots by Villanova's Bob Schaffer. John McCarthy of Buffalo brought the ball upcourt for the Canisius quintet and then, with one eye on the clock and the other on his defensive opponent, Marty Milligan, calmly dribbled from one side of the court to the other—waiting for an opportunity to make a game-winning shot as time neared the run-out mark.

With three seconds remaining, McCarthy started his drive for the basket and Allen Griffith, attempting to break up the play, bumped the Canisius player for the foul. McCarthy then dropped in his first shot and also made good the bonus effort.

Villanova tossed the ball down court but a desperation heave sailed over the backboard as the final gun sounded.

McCarthy led the Canisius attack with 7 field goals and 14 fouls for 28 points, while Hank Nowak netted 27 points on 8 field goals and 11 free throws.

Capt. Jack Devine tallied 27 points for Villanova, while Schaffer, one of the nation's 10 active 2,000-point club members, scored 22.

The score was tied at 39 at the half.

Olson Favored Over Vaughn

HOLLYWOOD, March 11 (AP) — Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson remained a 10-1 favorite today for his non-title 10-rounder against California champion Willie Vaughn tomorrow night at Legion Stadium.

However, Vaughn has been up against odds like this before. In his first fight against Charlie Green he made his backers happy and wealthy by going the route and winning the battle.

Vaughn has won, lost and regained the California middle title three times. He is 22, four years younger than Olson and his heart and stamina are recognized.

Stadium Manager Jesse Smith reports a good advance sale for the non-television bout.

Ryff Earns Ring Nod Over Perez

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Unbeaten Frankie Ryff made a scarlet smear of Danny Jo. Perez' face tonight to win his 17th straight with a unanimous 10-round decision over his New York rival at Madison Square Garden. Ryff, regarded as one of the best lightweight prospects in years, weighed 140, Perez 139½.

Ryff opened a cut over Perez' left eye in the first round. His handlers were not able to stop the crimson flow and Danny's face was smeared with red the rest of the way.

Ryff, the 1954 rookie of the year, simply had too much class for Perez and it was reflected in the voting of the officials.

Both Judges Harold Barnes and Referee Ruby Goldstein gave it Ryff 9-1. Judge Artie Aidala called it 8-1-1. The Associated Press saw it as 9-1.

Perez' cut was examined by Referee Goldstein at the end of the fourth round and again by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, of the State Athletic Commission staff, at the end of the fifth and seventh rounds.

Dr. Nardiello declared after the fifth round that the cut was a "superficial one and that in his worst fight Ryff was cut 20 times his life."

He referred to Ryff's bout with Orlando Zaluta in December in which Frankie was severely cut over the eye and had 22 stitches.

DANIEL G. WARNER, 23 N. Ninth St., councilman representing Stroudsburg's Fourth Ward, yesterday announced he has filed his petition for the Democratic nomination for a second term on council.

Mr. Warner has operated a funeral director business in Stroudsburg for the past five years.

A native of Saylorsburg, he is a son of the late Claude and Mrs. Florence Warner, both of whom served as register and recorder and played an important role in Democratic party politics.

Monroe County Represented At Conference

J. NORMAN Dietrick, soil conservationist, represented Monroe County at the third annual four-day conference of county conservationists held at Pennsylvania State University, State College, this week. The session was called by State Conservationist Ivan McKeever.

The affair consisted of various conferences and workshop discussions and was featured by a banquet Wednesday night. The main banquet speakers included President Milton Eisenhower of university; William L. Henning, the new secretary of Agriculture; Maurice K. Goddard, the new secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters; Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of agriculture at the school; and Donald A. Williams, administrator of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

All 30 soil conservation districts were represented as well as several counties where SCS men are working. Over 75 SCS technicians and about 25 representatives of other state and federal agencies took part in the four-day program. Members of the State Highway Department, Game Commission and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service also attended.

The conference is staged each year to bring the SCS workers up to date on the latest technical information available along with the latest research findings and developments. It also serves to coordinate the work of all cooperating agencies in order to get the major soil conservation jobs done.

Two Released From Jail

A PAROLE has been granted to Earl Gardner, Barrett Township man who served seven months of an 11-month term on a burglary conviction.

Gardner was released from Monroe County Jail this week. His petition for parole was granted during a special session by President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Gardner was charged with burglarizing the George Madison summer home near East Stroudsburg last August. He was found guilty by a jury last Sept. 28; sentenced to prison and fined $100 by Judge Davis on Feb. 19.

His sentence was ordered computed from Aug. 27, 1954, date of his confinement in the jail.

Also released from county jail this week was John W. Brink, 46 of Ananionk, Brink was charged with sodomy and convicted. He was jailed on April 27 last year and served 11 months of a 23-month sentence.

Discoverer Of Penicillin Dies

Through a microscope, he noticed that a blue mold appeared to be killing bacteria on the plate. Further tests showed that the mold-growing liquid, even when diluted 800 times, cleared away bacteria. He also found it did not damage blood corpuscles.

Sir Alexander identified the mold from its brush-like appearance as belonging to the penicillium family of fungi. He named it penicillin and recorded his discovery in an official report in 1929.

Ten years passed before a pair of Oxford University researchers, Sir Howard Florey and Dr. Ernst Boris Chain, produced penicillin in the crystalline form which has made it one of the most potent drugs ever produced. It was perfected in time to save thousands of soldiers' lives from infection during World War II.

War-time mass production made it possible to release the germ-killing marvel to civilians in 1945. It proved effective in combating rocci which caused blood poisoning including "strep" throat and infections following childbirth.

Russia's claim to have invented penicillin didn't cause much worry to Sir Alexander. Told recently that the Soviets were claiming it, Fleming replied:

"Oh, are they? Well, perhaps they might be right. I didn't discover it any more than I discovered me."

Ike's Highway Bill Attacked By Democrats

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Senate Democrats scoffed today at the idea that President Eisenhower's proposed superhighways could evacuate cities in an atomic attack.

Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.) said a network of high-speed interstate roads wouldn't be "worth a darn" for that purpose. He said they'd soon become jammed.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, author of the administration's road program, was in the witness chair before the Senate Public Roads subcommittee as McNamara and other Democrats stated their views.

Clay had listed evacuation of cities as one of several reasons for the proposed interstate network. He said today he didn't think "any complete evacuation is possible, but I believe you could get a lot more people out on good roads."

McNamara said one accident on a superhighway would choke off traffic. "I can't visualize the system lasting for 10 minutes with people running for their lives," he said. "Personally I would rather try the back alley. I think I'd have a better chance of getting out."

The freshman Michigan senator said he took the position that a vastly expanded highway program is needed more to boost the nation's economy than to solve its atomic evacuation problems.

Clay said "to my mind, the economic need is so great you don't need any other reasons." He added it would be "economic folly" not to go ahead.

Chairman Gore (D-Tenn.), who has written a rival road bill, said he shares McNamara's "grave doubts about the feasibility of evacuating a city like New York."

Gore, McNamara and other Democrats also criticized the administration's financing plan. Under it the federal government would put up 21 billion dollars during the next 10 years to finance the network. The money would come from federal borrowing through a bond issue and would involve an interest charge of about 11 1/2 billions over 30 years.

The bonds would be retired with proceeds from the federal two-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax. Sen. Case (R-S.D.) questioned whether Congress would be willing to earmark the gas tax revenues in this manner.

McNamara said he thought it would be wiser to raise the gas tax and have the highway user pay "for roads and not interest charges."

Chess Tourney Games Played

STROUDSBURG Chess Club members, meeting on Thursday night at the office of President John Price, South Stroudsburg, featured a number of tournament games. Price hopes to determine relative strength among the players and then organize inter-town contests.

Harold James defeated Ed Burnett in a quick game. Burnett then defeated Ed Somers in a nip and tuck battle. Burnett then defeated William Hay.

Somers then took revenge by defeating Louis Mondell one game.

Harold James trimmed Louis Mondell in three straight games. Price lost to John Kulp three times in succession.

Another three time loser was William P. Deering against whom Frank Merwarth made a perfect score.

Deering took consolation by defeating W. B. Roan of Barrett Township one game. Roan however was not without consolation defeating William Hay two games to one.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Mother To Pay Ex-Mate For Baby's Support

MADISON, Wis., March 11 (AP)—A University of Wisconsin coed today gave up her 2-year-old child in a divorce action to her husband and agreed to pay support money for the youngster.

Divorce counsel Sverre Braathen said it was the first case in his experience where a wife gave up a child and then offered to pay the husband for supporting it.

The woman is Floria W. Solberg, 24, freshman in the school of letters and science. She was awarded a divorce in Circuit Court from Guner D. Solberg, also 22, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Solberg is a senior in the commerce school at the university.

Braathen said the child is living with Solberg's parents and it was agreed Solberg and his parents could take better care of the youngster.

The court stipulation showed Mrs. Solberg owns a farm and has a substantial income. She agreed to pay $66 a month for the first year, $58 a month the second year, and $50 a month the third and $14 a month thereafter.

The divorce was granted by Judge Alvin C. Reis.

"Something New Every Day"

It's Beautiful,
Practical And Economical

By Penny Hazell

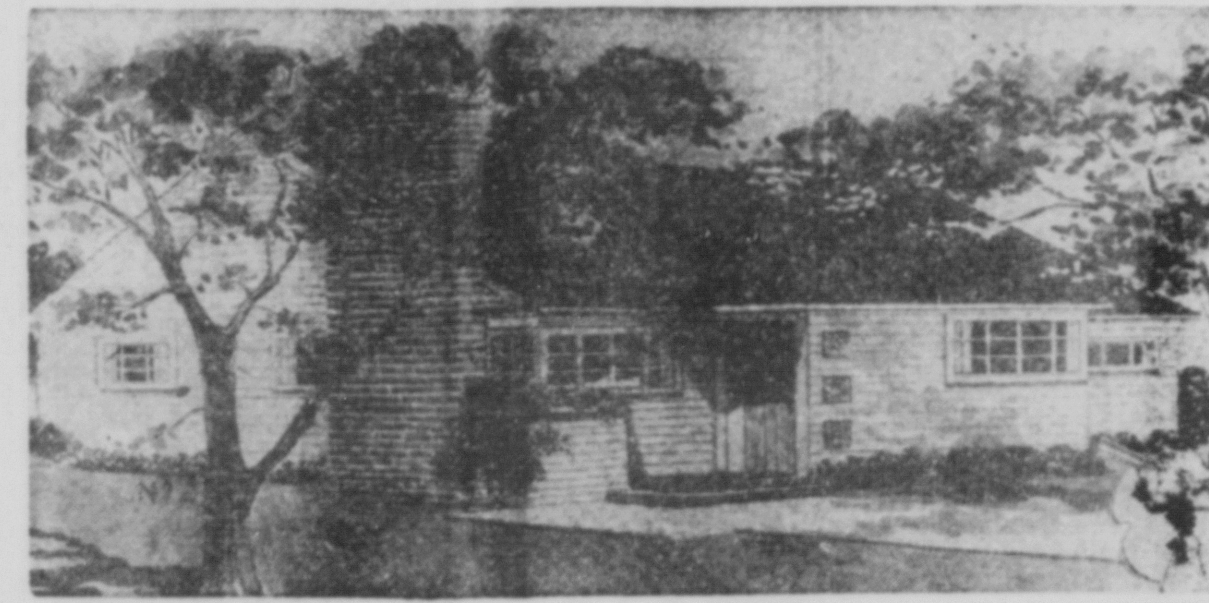

IT IS MY sincere desire to make available plans for small homes, economical homes, and most of all individual, attractive homes. I have traveled many roads and by-ways. I have learned much, some of it disillusioning, and some encouraging. For instance, now I know that there are a great many architects who have not always designed Empire State Buildings and Brooklyn Bridges. Some of these men dream and plan beautiful little homes that you, too, can afford. One of these gentlemen designed the home we are illustrating here. Mr. Horner has been designing homes for over 35 years and 3,000 of these small homes have been built. He knows, even before his clients, just what is necessary and practical as well as economical. But let me describe the one above.

As you will note, the exterior is extremely attractive, with its wood siding and brick trim. Its flower-boxes, and corner windows. The entrance leads to a vestibule that is almost a 'must' in colder climates. A small clothes closet is directly opposite the front door. Swinging left, we come into a large living room with the 'impossible-to-be-without' fireplace on one side. The long picture window chasing itself around the corner gives loads of light to the room and flatters the outside appearance as well.

The dining alcove is in the front of the house and you will notice the lack of a partition between it and the living room. This adds a feeling of spaciousness to both rooms. Another long corner window in the dining alcove adds more cheer. China shelves have been built into the wall opposite and these eliminate the necessity of sideboards or other cumbersome pieces of furniture that often crowd the small dining room.

The kitchen is to the right, off the dining alcove, and there every available bit of space has been used to advantage. There are cupboards to the right and left of the sink and over the stove, and there is a broom closet by the refrigerator.

There are two windows, one a long picture window over the sink with a shelf underneath for potted plants. Confidentially, if I were the least bit caty, I'd comment right here, that this long front window over the sink is perfect for keeping an eye on your new neighbor, about whom you are naturally curious. The side door leads directly to the basement, making it necessary to make any turns when taking the laundry up or down these stairs, and there is also a large landing at the top opening into the kitchen, an ideal spot for temporary storage of odds and ends.

Let's go back now, through the dining room into the little central hall. Both bedrooms and the bath lead off this hall. One of the two linen closets is here, too. Mr. Horner realizes the need for closets and provides them quite lavishly, even in very small homes.

The largest bedroom is to the left and has a huge wardrobe closet with sliding doors. Sliding doors take up no space thereby enlarging the useable area of the bedrooms. Two windows provide cross ventilation.

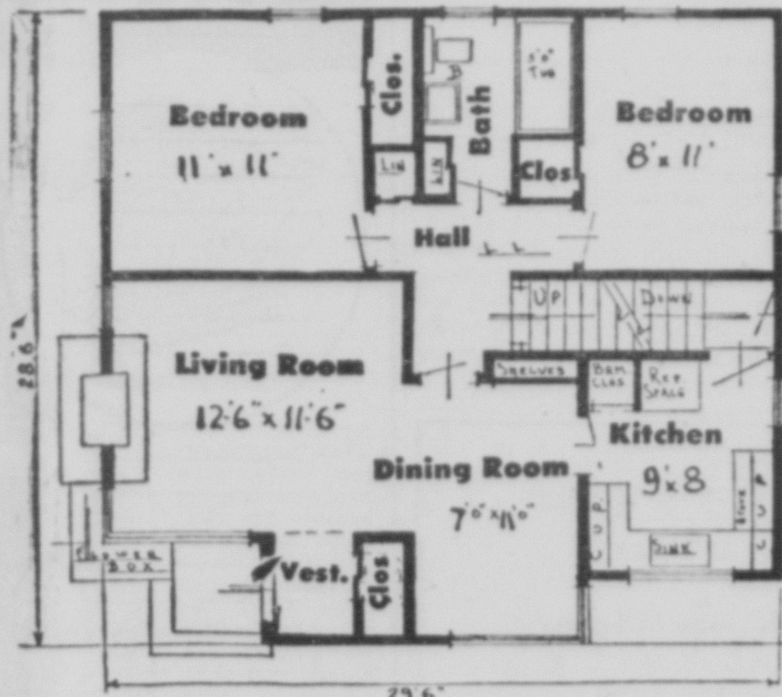

Next is the good sized bathroom placed between the two bedrooms and very convenient for both guests and members of the family. In the bath is another linen closet and a built-in medicine chest.

The right hand bedroom is a trifle smaller but also has cross ventilation and a closet of its own.

Steps lead from the little central hall to the upstairs where there is plenty of space for two extra bedrooms or a large sewing or play room.

As for the basement, well, you ladies with hobbling husbands or sons, can now give them a place of their own to mess up (clean up, too, if they're controllable). The basement extends under the entire house and there is plenty of room for the furnace, a laundry, a fruit cellar, and the aforementioned hobby room.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5. for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 ea. Due to an increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help.

Will you send 50c for postage when ordering the plans, and 10c each for the portfolios? Just send your check or money order to PENNEY'S SMALL HOMES, BOX 1055, Berkley, Mich. Allow at least two weeks for delivery.

Narrow Flooring
Is Attractive

WHILE THE most common type of oak flooring is the 2 1/4-inch width, 1 1/2-inch boards make a very attractive floor. They require more time to install, because more pieces are needed to cover a given area, but they are just as durable and easy to maintain as the wider flooring—and are less likely to develop cracks.

Homemade Wood Filler

A FAST drying wood filler can be made by mixing sawdust with enough lacquer to form a thick paste.

Childproof Walls
Defy Dirt, Grease

REMOVING stains left by childish hands is simple when walls are covered with plastic-finished panels. The baked finish defies dirt, grease, spilled food and other marks produced by children. Soil and stains come off quickly with a damp cloth. The plastic-finished panels, in various sizes, colors and patterns suitable for every room in the house, are sold through lumber dealers.

Remove The Remover

AFTER USING a paint and varnish remover, be sure to wipe the surface thoroughly with turpentine or a wax remover. This is necessary to remove the wax left by the remover. If this precaution isn't taken, the new finish will not stick.

Attractive Design For Small House

By Penny Hazel

THERE WAS a guy named Jack who was married to a gal named Jill.

They had no pail of water but they did own a hill.

They wanted to build a house as quickly as they could.

They finally chose the plan above because it fit so good.

Ye Gods! I just lost my poetic license. All kidding aside, I do think the above design is attractive, don't you?

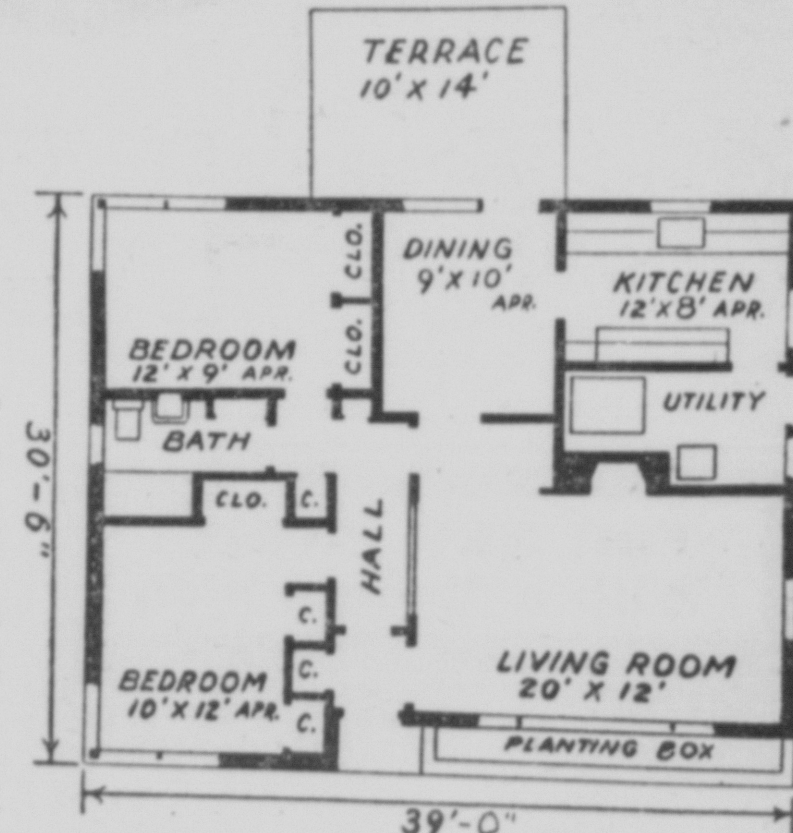

Actually it has the appearance of having grown right out of the ground like a mushroom. It is made of gay red brick with white wood siding being used for trim.

Seen from the flagstone walk in front, the big picture window, the planting box, and the cute enhancing roof make a wonderful combination.

As we enter the house, we see the small coat closet on our left and also the fact that the hall is larger than the usual vestibule. It leads to both sides of the house eliminating the need of walking through the living room while going from the kitchen to the front door.

The living room itself is big, bright, and beautiful. Accent is on the central fireplace and the big front window. The wall between the hall and this room is turned into bookshelves. Your gads and pottery will look marvelous scattered among the bright jackets of the books.

There is a private dining room provided for the consistent conservatives who demand one. This has a large window and a door for provision of daylight. The door opens onto the terrace which will be made of the same flagstone or slate that was used in the front sidewalk.

The cute little kitchen is all of a piece, if you know what I mean. It is compact and labor saving and will be cheery and gay because of two windows.

Next to the kitchen is the utility room which holds the heater, washer, dryer, and hot water tank. May I mention that as this room is directly behind the fireplace only one flue is necessary. You just saved a few dollars there, too. A door leads to the side yard from the utility room.

Now for the sleeping area.

Both bedrooms are quite large and both have cunning corner windows and ventilation in an abundance. The back room has two separate closets (I hear squeals of joy from my women readers) while the front has two spall and one large closet. There is ANOTHER closet in the hall. There'll be no storage problems in this home even though it is only on one floor.

Just to finish my story I should tell you about the fruit trees and grape arbor Jack's putting on his hill around his house. But I haven't time or space.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set. (Continued on page 4)

3-Bedroom House Easy On Pocketbook

By Penny Hazel

THE PLAN I'M showing you here was chosen the day following the paying of my quarterly income tax. Now, if that sentence doesn't mean anything to you—just look at the floor plan and you'll see what I mean.

It does seem to me that a person has the darndest time just accruing the necessary nickels (who can do anything with pennies?) to live. Just about the day that you have that down payment on a new home, one of those notices arrives... and that's all, brother.

Well, as I said, the design I'm showing is for the person with the champagne appetite and the beer pocketbook. (Note to teetotalers, that's just an expression.) The exterior is made of brick with wood battens and vertical wood siding for trim. The cunning front porch will come in handy on those warm summer evenings when your teen-age daughter entertains the captain of the football team.

The little vestibule is a heat-saving device... therefore a must when economy is the key-note. The living room is lovely and large and because of that grand big front window and the two smaller ones on the side, will be bright and cheery the year round. The small ell at one end of the room will act charmingly when Mother decides to serve a formal dinner. Taking into consideration the new combined living-dining furniture that does so many clever tricks, no one will ever know that a dining room is missing.

The kitchen is really quite large—plenty of space for a brunch bar or table and chairs out here. And don't you love that great big window? That little hall off the kitchen has the side door and also the steps to a full basement. If at some future date a garage is built on to the house, it can be connected right at this little side door without losing any windows. Just a thought...

Now, because of careful planning on the part of the architect, there are just oceans of closets and, mind you, three full bedrooms. This can be done, but it seldom is, when the overall square footage is so small. As I say, it depends on the architect and his knowledge of how to utilize each foot to YOUR advantage.

Because the larger bedroom is in the front, round-the-corner windows are used. The back room has cross ventilation and the small front bedroom is taken care of nicely with its large window.

Beside the closet provided for each bedroom, there are three more openings off the hallway, so there'll be no storage problems.

Complete building blueprints, including specifications sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 for each duplicate. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to an increase in postal rates. (Continued on page 3)

Cozy Place Only 25 Feet Across Front

By Penny Hazell

MOM AND POP were sitting on the back porch. The house was quiet for the first time in 23 years. The hubbub of Mary's wedding was all over and only pieces of white tissue paper, ribbon, and wedding cake were left to show the ordeal that had taken place.

Mom gave a small sigh—Pop couldn't tell whether it was from relief or loneliness. Finally decided there was a little of both.

Mom said, "Well, we don't need a four bedroom house any more. Guess we can pick a plan for that new home we've always talked about. Let's make it small and simple to take care of 'cause I'm going on a permanent vacation'."

Pop couldn't help but laugh—so the show must go on—well, he'd never understand women if he lived to be a hundred. He'd been sure Ma was griv'ing.

Some time later they picked out the design I'm showing here. I notice that Mom left a little room for the family to come home to visit. But let me tell you about it.

The house is made of brick with white wood trim. It has a comfortable homey look (kind of like dom) with a cute bay window beside the front entrance. As the lot is in the city and not too large, the house is only 25' across the front but it is long and roomy.

The two of 'em just can't stand being cooped up in small rooms so the living room is very large. Of course, there is a fireplace and here are two windows beside the great big bay at the front. Mom's plants and flowers look healthy and gay hanging from the ceiling in glass shelves in this bay.

As they have an old Sheraton lining set that is beautiful and just not ready for discarding, Mom insists on a dining room. It looks lovely with the two bright windows and the gay chintz drapes.

The Queen's Domain (the kitchen, to you) is compact and convenient. And guess what—Pop refused to give up the luxury of having a place to eat in this room. He loves those informal chats the two of 'em have over limburger cheese and onion sandwiches and beer—settle all the problems of the day, generally. Yep, he believes that eatin' in the kitchen is an American tradition that will never be replaced.

The basement and the side door of the house is mighty handy. Oh, Mom insisted on a basement for she had so many little remembrances of the past twenty-three years that she just couldn't throw away that extra storage space was imperative. (We call her a string saver where I come from).

There are two good sized bedrooms on one floor. Mom can't get over not having to climb stairs to make beds daily. Each has cross ventilation and roomy closets.

The bath is real handy—Mom never did like having the tub under the window so it is to the side. There is a towel closet for Pop (just in case he gets caught slightly damp and unarmed).

A linen closet is in the hall. Right across from it are stairs that lead to an up-to-now unfinished second floor. Frankly, this is a must 'cause Mom is secretly hoping the kids will come home with the grandchildren for Christmas and holidays. It will be grand for extra beds at a later date.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to an increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help. Here's Duplex Fashioned In Ranch Style

WELL, EVERYBODY has problems and believe me, I'm no exception. But because of the many letters I've received asking for ranch type duplexes, I went all out looking for at least one good design that would appeal to you readers. When I found the plan I'm showing here, I felt I'd really hit the jackpot and I still think so. Duggone it, maybe it's just because I'm a woman and difficult to please, but there is one change I would certainly make if I were building this good looking ranch type double house.

However, I'm getting ahead of myself—so I'll describe the floor plan to you as it is and you see if you can find it.

To begin—the house is built of a sandy colored brick. The exterior is very modern in appearance though not extreme. I love the large window groups with their attractive planting boxes and the inviting entrances that are well separated from one another.

Each side is exactly alike so we'll just discuss the left one. There is a tiny entry hall with a coat closet. The living room is spacious and very inviting with its long front window and the fireplace at the end. There is plenty of wall space for furniture placing and even the television set presents no problem.

We find a small hall leading off the living room with another small storage closet in it. To the left is the sleeping area. The front bedroom is the smaller of the two and has twin windows opening on the porch and one on the side. This will allow the night breezes to circulate freely through the room. Here, too, we find a closet with sliding doors. Another storage closet is right beside the door in the small hallway.

The bath is right next door and has a towel closet conveniently placed nearby.

The back bedroom is quite large and also has ventilation. I fell in love with that tremendous wardrobe closet that makes up one whole wall of the room. How beautifully one could keep their best bib and tucker with no fear of crowding or wrinkling . . .

But let's investigate the laboring area of the house.

First we come to the kitchen . . . it is a compact and tidy U shape. Would be mighty easy to keep clean for no space is left for waste or messing-up. There's oodles of work room and an abundance of cupboards. An open serving port is above the kitchen sink at about eye level. As there is a snack bar on the other side, this simplifies the problem of transporting hot foods to the dining room. Or did I mention that there was a dining room, if not I'll do so now.

This little room has one entire wall of windows overlooking the back yard or terrace. It would make a very pleasant spot for entertaining on a gay summer evening.

However—and here comes the beef: If I were building this house, I'd sacrifice the pleasure of dining with a view and I'd move the kitchen back to where the dining room is, keeping the half wall

(this allows for a view through) and I'd combine my living room with my dining room. In this way I'd be closer to the back door and the basement steps. (Yep, there is a full basement).

Well, I've said it and I'm glad. I'll bet that most of you gals agree with me, too. Though the blueprints will be as shown, your builder can make this change with no difficulty whatever.

Forgive me for presenting a plan and then making changes, won't you. There are so many other things I like about the design I simply couldn't resist it and I'm too honest not to suggest the change—so there.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help. Economy Is Keystone For This House

I ALWAYS get a bit goony when I read an item about the wedding of some cute young couple or another. Generally there is a picture of the radiant bride to crown the feast and she always just oozes joy. After the announcement of where the two of 'em will honeymoon, comes the statement "The young couple will live at 32 Lover's Lane, in their new little home that has just been completed."

Now, that's where I come in... for many are the plans that I've chosen with an eye to newly-weds and many the homes that have been built from these plans. The design I'm showing here seems to me to fit into this category. It's cute, small (though roomy) and will be perfect for the city lot as well as for Lover's Lane.

The house is exactly square—being 24' x 24'. It is made of snowy white wood siding and the spot of color will be in the shutters and the roof.

The living room will be just the right size for the new furniture and knick-knacks that made up the wedding presents. There is a cute coat closet by the door that leads to the kitchen-dinette. Beside this closet is the chimney and will be necessary for the floor furnace that is shown. As economy is the keynote, there is no basement and because of the compactness of the house the floor heater will do the trick nicely.

The cunning kitchen has room for the informal eating area that

Open Planning Evident In This Design

THE LITTLE HOME I am proudly presenting here is of red brick combined with wood siding, and field stone for the entrance. Of course, it could be built of just plain white wood siding, or cement or cinder block. In a few months, the woodchime or ivy will find its way up to the sun via the chimney and your home will look just like the picture on top of a calendar.

The interior, I think, provides for a great deal of convenient living. You enter the front door through a vestibule which I liked because you are protected from the direct cold breezes. It cuts down on heat expense, and besides, Mom, if Junior isn't quite trained for the backdoor, here he can rid himself of snowsuit, rubbers, and other cold weather paraphernalia.

The living room is exceptionally large for such a small home and is extremely livable because of a large picture window along one wall and a rugged stone fireplace along the front. If you had an attractive landscaped side yard, you could enjoy every moment of it in the summer, while the fireplace in the winter accentuates your sense of security and warmth when the snow covers your garden.

The dining area adjoins the living room and the above floor plan shows the influence of open planning. I liked this because it makes the rooms seem so much larger than they are. However, if you preferred a separate dining room, it would be simple, just extend the wall separating the kitchen from the living room to the outside wall.

The kitchen is a dream of compactness and efficiency. There is a large window over the sink through which one can keep an eye on the blooming of the cosmos and tomatoes, and watch the antics of the neighbors' dogs. There is a shelf under the window of the inside for potted plants. I liked the work counters on both sides of the sink and the other large counter area directly opposite the stove and refrigerator. The space between the stove and the refrigerator is only 4 feet, saving hundreds of steps preparing meals.

Another factor which appealed to me, was the service entrance opening directly on to a landing and the steps going straight ahead into the basement. Isn't it wonderful to be able to carry laundry upstairs and directly out to the line without a lot of excess effort? This door and landing are the ultimate spots you are hoping to use for noisy exits and entrances when Junior is trained.

Now for the bedrooms! There are two downstairs, (six of relief, no stairs) both having cross ventilation and they each have large closets. The bathroom I loved, because it can be easily reached from either the kitchen or the living room. This makes it very convenient for guests. I peeked into the unfinished upstairs, yes, there is one and was very happy to note that if the family expands, or a sewing room is needed, the space is there.

The basement is excavated under the entire house and provides space for a separate heater room, and a laundry room with places for sorting dishes, washing machine, mangle, etc.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 for duplicates. Home-Loving Family Will Go For This

HAVE YOU EVER driven past a home and wondered just what kind of people would choose that particular design? Maybe the house has a cold corner-ish look that assures you that there can't be too much love of fellow man in the person who dwells within. Of course you're probably very wrong, but there's no doubt that a house reflects personality.

The plan I'm showing here is the type that would be chosen by a home-loving family and there is probably quite a group to account for. There will be a couple of kids, Mom and Pop, and maybe an invalid or aging mother (we'll eliminate the in-law on general principles.)

The small fry will be proud of the brick and wood siding exterior. The rest of the occupants will enjoy the comfortable assurance of the modern, but oh, so solid feeling of the home. This is what they've prayed for.

The living room is tremendous and has the most wonderful two-way fireplace. It not only warms the cockles of your heart during the relaxing hours of just sitting—but while the fire is burning thru dinner, the glow can be felt in the cute little dining area.

The adjoining kitchen is all in a line—meaning that one can cook dinner with nothing more than a sliding door movement. Sliding from left to right or vice versa. The steps that lead to a great big basement are near the kitchen. I've mentioned before and I will again the joy of having space in the latter for informal meals. Well, there is room in this kitchen plan too.

Now, with all that storage space in the basement you'd think that the closet rooms would be limited. But not true, for there are seven wonderful closets in this home on the first floor alone.

I particularly like the walk-in closet in the big front bedroom to say nothing of that beautiful sheet and blanket storage room in the hallway across from the bath. Another happy point is the combined shower and tub. That should take care of all idiosyncrasies that pop up in the Saturday night problem.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. Wood Paneled Walls Major 1955 Trend

AN ACCELERATION of the trend to wood paneled walls will be a highlight of the home decorating picture in 1955, builders and stylists predict.

Factors stimulating this movement, they report, include the necessity for maintaining the value and appearance of existing homes and the search by builders for distinctive features to promote sales of new houses in an increasingly competitive market. Also of importance is the great popularity of flush doors, since wall paneling can be chosen either to match or contrast with the doors' hardwood species.

Plywood wall paneling offers unlimited design possibilities. A room can be entirely or partially paneled, or a hall or dining area can be paneled in a wainscoting effect. Particularly striking is one-wall treatment, with a wall paneled to set off a fireplace or to soften the glare of light from a picture window.

This House Is Spacious Yet Compact

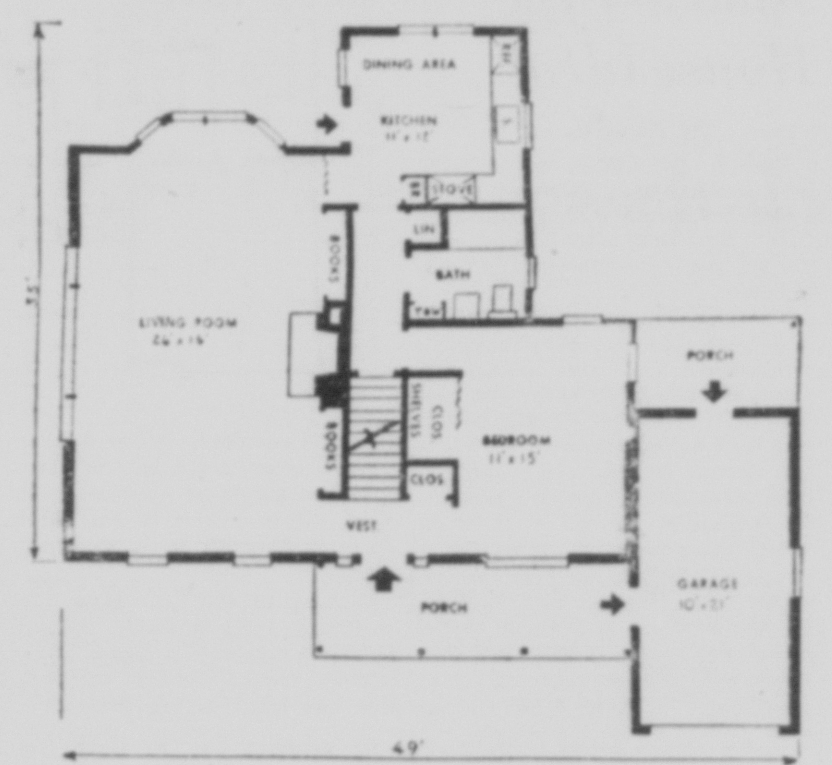

By Penny Hazell

IT TAKES a small genius to sit down at a typewriter and pour out words of wisdom, joy and cheer in times like these. And as I am neither small nor a genius I'm stumped before I start. The one thing that does keep my hopes alive is the amazing amount of mail I receive from my readers for most of them seem determined to hang on to their dreams and their plans for a new home. To me this is a symbol of the determination that will keep these United States united regardless of what comes.

So today I have a new plan I think you'll all like. The home is made of white wood siding and it has a comfortable New England look about it. With the attached garage, the home has a largish look but actually it is quite small and compact.

This plan would be perfect for the middle aged couple whose kids have grown up and who would like living quarters all on the first floor. There is room upstairs for one large or two smaller bedrooms when the young 'uns come home for the holidays.

The living room is positively tremendous and more than an abundance of windows have been provided. Note the huge picture window on the side as well as the cute bay window overlooking Father's rock garden. I like the spacious book shelves built in on either side of the central fireplace, too. Just invites a quiet evening of reading in front of the fire (with your shoes off, of course).

Because so many of you still cling to that American Tradition 'eatin' in the kitchen, the dining space has been provided as an adjunct to Mother's work room. This is a well arranged compact little spot that has been surrounded by windows to catch three views.

A small hallway leads past the bath and linen closet to the basement stairs. Yes, there is a full basement under the house that will accommodate heater, washer and dryer, and abundant storage space.

The only bedroom shown is extremely spacious and cross ventilation is available with the help of a large window at the front and a smaller one in back. The wardrobe closet is provided with accordion doors and plenty of room for shelves as well as hanging space. Another door from the bedroom leads to the front vestibule and we're right back where we started. Beside the coat closet you'll see the stairway leading to the unfinished half story above. Member, that's the spot we're saving till later.

I don't think it's necessary to mention the handy little door that opens into the garage from the front porch. Or the funny little porch on the back with another

Low, Rambling Ranch-Type House Ideal

By Penny Hazell

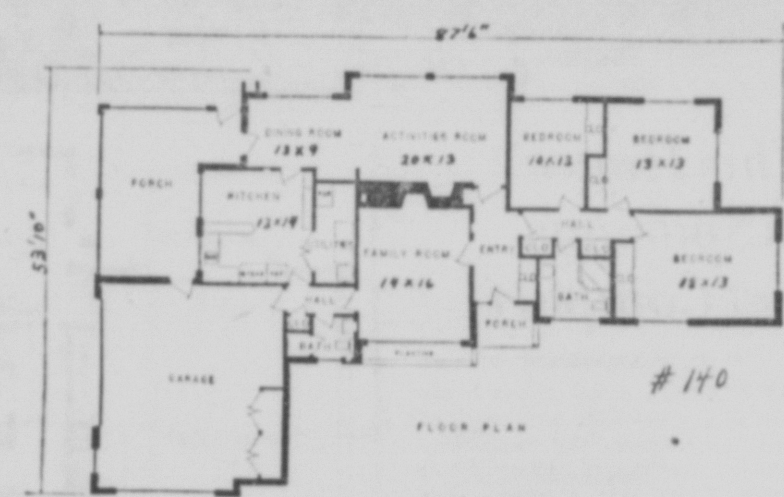

DON'T YOU LOVE success stories? I do, even though at times I may indulge in a small touch of envy. But that's only when things are going a bit rough and I get out of tune.

The plan I'm presenting here is a definite part of a success story. I've known Doc and Louise for years and loved 'em both. He was and is the type of family doctor that gets up any time of the night for tummy aches or whatever. Now, after some time they seem to be making a real go of it (even though they used to settle for a couple of chickens, or a pig in lieu of the fee). They've just completed the new home that is shown above and it is a dream they both deserve to realize.

Let me tell you all about it.

It is a low, rambling brick ranch type and though there is no waste space (who can indulge in waste space with four growing kids?) it is a spacious, relax-and-take-off-your-shoes type of place. . . . The little entry hall has a large coat closet and leads to two very interesting rooms. In the front, the family room. This is where everyone collects when cribbage tournaments are on—or when the favorite television show is due. The large activities room makes a marvelous spot for adult entertaining. It has beautiful large windows overlooking the terrace and gardens and a fireplace that also serves the young 'uns in the other room. The dining room is really just part of the activities room itself.

The kitchen acts in a two-fold fashion for there is space provided for quick lunches. When a more spacious (tho' informal) luncheon is served the large glassed-in side porch will be perfect for the affair. There is a handy little washroom nearby.

Because of the marvelous new heating systems available, there is no basement and a large utility room off the kitchen does the trick. Step and labor saving, for sure.

By doubling up, the three bedrooms provide nicely for the two boys, the two girls, and leave enough space for a large boudoir for Doc and Louise. Huge wardrobe closets with sliding doors and plenty of cross ventilation are extra special features of the sleeping area.

You girls will notice particularly that there are gobs of closets for storage space. Yes, huge double ones are in the garage, too. Complete building blueprints, including specifications sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 for each duplicate. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to an increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help. Comfortable Living Seems Assured Here

By Penny Hazell

EVERYBODY loves a beginning. Or let us say, something new. . . . Like a wedding . . . the start of a new year . . . the first buds on a tree . . . the birth of a child . . . the thrill of a new business . . . and last but not least . . . the digging of the foundation of a new home! It can all be summed up in one word . . . creation. I think that many of you will see your new home in the plan presented here. It is attractive and in many, many ways . . . new.

Let me tell you about it or at least, what I see in it. You'll find many of your own ideas incorporated that I may miss, I know. The front of the house is only 25 feet wide so it will fit on a city lot very comfortably. The house is shown in white wood siding. The use of vertical as well as horizontal siding trims the appearance up considerably as do the bright shutters and the front planting box.

The living room is almost square and very large. Two big windows and a small one give the room light and gaiety. I'm slightly bawdy about the clever little fireplace with its flagstone hearth. Its tipsy angle is really new. The coat closet is artfully placed near the entrance to the sleeping area.

The dining area is separate in this little house and has a huge picture window opening onto the terrace. Another large closet or built-in china cupboard is beside the entrance to the kitchen.

The latter is a darling . . . in my opinion, any way. That great big window over the sink surrounded by cupboards will make dish washing fun on the bright spring days.

And don't overlook the two doors leading outside. One to the terrace on the right and one to the side yard. The broom closet is large enough to put shelves in for those many incidentals like furniture polish, dust cloths, and all the other marvelous things that collect so quickly around us.

Going down the three small steps, we find the utility room. Here is the heater . . . hot water heater . . . place for tubs and washing machine . . . and a large built-in cupboard for fruit storage and canned goods. All so compact and handy to the kitchen.

Now, let's investigate the sleeping rooms. There are only two in the house but both are quite large. The back one has a door leading to the terrace and a large double closet. Suggest that the larger one on the right go to Mamma and the smaller on the left to Pop. He seldom owns as many suits as she does dresses. Between the door and the large corner window . . . sleeping will be no problem in the middle of August.

Past the bath and the small linen closet, and we enter the front bedroom. Here are more corner windows and another large single closet.

Now, though I believe this house to have everything necessary to comfortable living, I will say that it appears to me to be one of the most economical to build.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to an increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help. This Fits On Average City Lot

I GUESS it's pretty safe to assume that if each of us were given a choice as to where we'd prefer to live, the largest majority of us would pick a hill not too far from a city. And though it wouldn't quite be country, we would have to walk a piece to get to our next door neighbor. If we all lived in the country, there wouldn't be a city, now would there?

This plan is a vine covered cottage (tra la) that will fit nicely on the average city lot. Don't be misled by that smallish cozy look for the interior contains all the wonderful advantages of a large home—noddies of closets, three bedrooms, etc.

Let's take a look at it. The living room is quite large and for the sake of economy the fireplace just isn't there. It can be added if you like, however.

The kitchen-dining area is at the front of the house and is attractively arranged. I like the counter-partition for it'll come in mighty handy for serving space. The big basement can be reached by passing the small broom closet and the side door.

Between the living room and the sleeping area are two closets. One will be used for coat storage, no doubt. With one exception, all of the bedrooms have cross ventilation and each has an ample closet of its own. There is a good sized linen closet right next the bath, too.

Complete building blue prints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. How To Protect Porch Pillar Bases From Rot

THE BASES of wooden posts and pillars supporting roofs of outside porches often rot out. This is because the post usually is hollow. If a few small holes are drilled at the base, it will allow water inside to drain out and also allow some fresh air to enter. Paint the wood around the hole to prevent it from absorbing moisture.

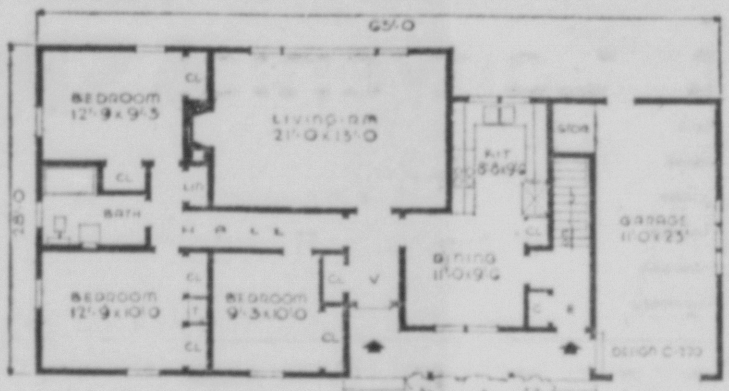

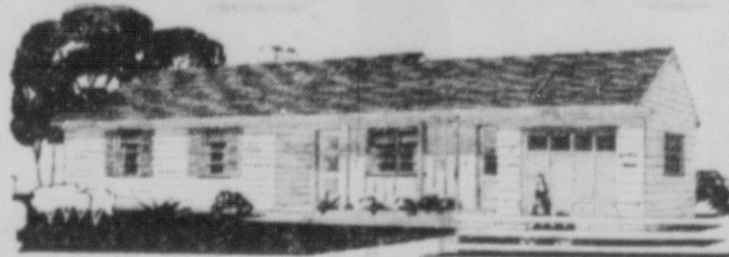

Spring Brings Upsurge In Shop Projects

ADD SIGNS of spring—father in the workshop laying out a new "do it yourself" project.

A survey by a large general circulation magazine shows that more than half of the home workshop projects undertaken in a given year are started during March, April, May and June. In preparation for this mass release of energy, hobby shows thrive in many cities, home craftsmen muse over their plans and lumber dealers stock up with materials.

One product home craftsmen will see displayed more abundantly in before is hardwood plywood, the same material used in most commercial yards this Spring than ever. Den Takes Place Of Basement

DEAR MOM:

I've just made a discovery—Politics and religion are not the only controversial subjects that should never be brought up at dinner time. Y'see, we were invited to a rather swank soiree last night. I had a bit of trouble putting my ever-lovin' in his too tight tux—finding studs, cuff-links and stuff but we finally made it.

There were all kinds of nice people but my husband happened to draw one of the cute young moderns as a dinner partner. She was really a swell person but darned if they didn't get on his favorite subject... HOMES AND TYPES THEREOF.

Yipes, wasn't two minutes before she was fighting tooth and nail for the stream-lined modern type of architecture and he was going full blast in favor of the Cape Cod. Me, I like 'em both. The boy was rather biased for he had just inspected the enclosed plan and was much impressed. Let me tell you about the house Pop likes for I know you'll share his opinion one hundred percent.

As I said, it is Cape Cod-ish and all made of brick with trim of wood around the doorway and cute shutters on the windows. Yep, it does look inviting, doesn't it?

There was a cute little vestibule and it had a coat closet for handy storage space. The living room had windows in an abundance—the two smallish ones in front and the cutest bay at the side. I was impressed with the fireplace that was centrally located in the room for it gave the most comfortable appearance.

As there wasn't a dining room, the bay window was large enough to accommodate a table that would elongate and also a few matching chairs. These fitted into the decor of the other furniture of the room but really acted as dining equipment.

The kitchen was nearby and being in a large U shape, it was most handy. You could bake a pie, roast a chicken, and do all the other lovely necessities without more than a few steps. Umm, I can just imagine how you'd have loved that after those huge kitchens you are so used to.

Because the house was built for so very little, there wasn't any basement to dig. A little utility room did the trick instead. Even with the heater, there was space for a washing machine and dryer and needless to say, that little door leading to the back yard came in very handy.

The two bedrooms were really cute, the back one being a bit larger than the front. Both of them had cross ventilation and really substantial closets of their own. The linen closet in the hallway between the bedrooms made the changing of bed linen a cinch on Monday. Remember how you dreaded that job at the same time that the washing had to be done?

Small House That Can Be Made Larger

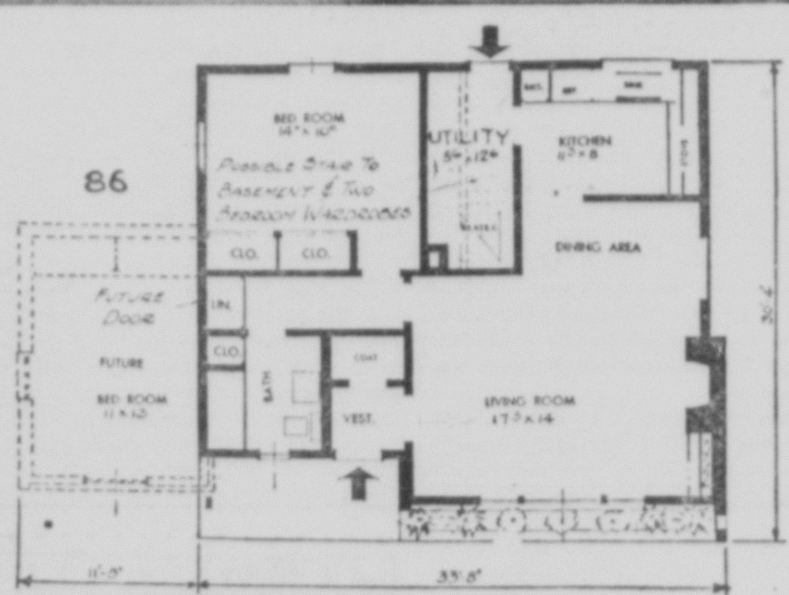

AHA! NOW we have it—

This is the time, I think, to come up with an ambidextrous home plan that can do more than a good job for its owner. Yes, these 'wars' and rumors of wars' make us all realize that a house must be adaptable to any situation just as we must be. There must be room to add on if adding is necessary. It can't be too large a home, for materials immediately become a problem. It must be very livable so that we can maintain our sense of humor and our natural love of home. All of these are important when storm clouds appear. Even a thunder storm can be tolerated if one is protected and comfortably tucked in.

The little home I'm showing here is adaptable to all kinds of conditions. It is made of vertical wood siding and brick. The front porch is as inviting as a piece of warm raspberry pie. I love the cute plantings boxes along the front windows.

There is a small vestibule and a welcoming coat closet as you enter the front door. These serve their practical purpose when the blasts of winter can be felt—for they do cut down on wasted heat. The living room is very big and between the large front picture window and the smaller one on the side, will be most gay and cheerful regardless of the outside weather conditions. The fireplace is a snug sort of addition that all homes should have. Besides it, there are built-in bookshelves for the 'Big Brain' of the family to use for his collection of classics.

The dining area is just a continuation of the living room, goes without saying that this arrangement allows more spaciousness.

There is a lovely big window here that permits the summer sun to grace the morning table.

The kitchen is designed for labor saving. It is as compact and practical as a kitchen can be. Every inch has been utilized to advantage.

Next to the kitchen is the utility room and the door leading to the back yard. But, wait, I say utility room . . . yes, there is one shown . . . but if you want a basement instead, the steps can be here and a full basement built under the house. Otherwise, the utility room is large enough to hold tubs and the automatic washer and dryer as well as the necessary heater.

As I mentioned before, this is a small economical home to build but very expensive. At the moment only one bedroom is shown. It is a nice large one however and has two beautifully huge wardrobe closets. There are also two windows to allow for cross ventilation.

Across the small hall is the bathroom and it, too, is very good sized. Now, when the time comes to add that necessary second bedroom, you need only knock out the big linen closet in the hall and continue the latter making a door to the new bedroom.

This is sketched in in broken lines to show you how large it can be. It will have two more big wardrobe closets, of course, and two windows across from each other. This addition will be simple and not at all costly.

Well, I'm sure that you'll agree with me that this is a practical and adaptable plan.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to an increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help. Lavish Design Popular With Many People

SOMEHOW, I JUST don't think I'll ever be able to understand people. I took courses in psychology, philosophy, and salesmanship while I was gathering my education. But, though any or all of these was supposed to give me some insight as the human mind, frankly, they all seemed to have failed.

When I started a planning column, I thought that all of you wanted to see small home designs. Then I, against my will, came out with one plan that had a den-sewing room—pantry—and special steps to the recreation room. A mighty expensive home too, I might add. It has been one of the most popular of the whole series and is still going strong—regardless of where it appears.

The same architect designed the home I'm showing here and it, too, is a bit lavish. It is made of brick mostly, but field or limestone can be used for the trim around the big picture window near the entry. This house will be lovely snuggled between a few large oak trees on a roomy lot in the suburbs.

Up the stoop and through the door (sounds like 'to Grandmother's house we go') we find the small heat saving entry or vestibule. The living room consists mainly of windows for they are at both ends of the room. Actually, the back two are sliding doors (see, they slip behind the bookshelves on either side of the fireplace) and these lead to a big luxurious porch that will overlook a cool green terrace—come summer time.

FLOOR PLAN

The dining room is separate and it, too, is quite large and abounds in windows. The kitchen is neat, tidy, and labor saving and has just loads of cupboard and closet space.

There is a 'kids washroom' nearby and the steps that lead to a full basement are just across and by the side door that goes to the yard.

There are three wonderful bedrooms on the same floor and the bath is right smack in the middle of this arrangement. Let's discuss the latter first. There is a tub, as well as the built-in shower here and also a big towel closet and a cross corner vanity for the lady of the house.

The front bedroom can be used for a den (if you prefer, and I do) and lots of ventilation and a huge wardrobe closet will make it adaptable for guest room use.

The master bedroom at the back has double closets for Mom and Pop as well as cross ventilation. Notice, too, the glass block windows in the closets that allow for daylight instead of the usual closet gloom.

The added bedroom at the side of the house has not two—but three—windows and will be perfect for the kids. They'll get an abundance of fresh air when nights are sultry.

Complete building blueprints, including specification sheets, are available at $5 for the first set and $3.50 each for duplicates. We also have three portfolios available, each containing 60 different designs, and selling for $1 for each. Due to an increase in postal rates, we would like to ask your help.
